THRILLING RESCUES FROM LINER

ABANDON DENVER AT SEA

NEW YORK, March 24.—Dispatches received here early today brought news of the rescue of the passengers and crew of the Mallory Line steamship Denver, which was abandoned at sea about 1,310 miles east of New York in a sinking condition. No less than ten steamships went to the Denver's rescue.

The rescue of the passengers and crew of seventy-two on the Denver by the Atlantic Transport Liner Manhattan and the steamship Megantic proved another triumph for the wireless.

When those on board were taken off the steamer was listing heavily and is believed to have gone down soon after.

TRIUMPH FOR WIRELESS.

A wireless message received today by the International Mercantile Marine told of the rescues. The radiogram was sent by Captain D. E. Metcalfe of the Megantic, which is due to arrive here on Saturday. Captain Metcalfe stated that he had Captain Fred Avery and Mrs. Avery and thirteen members of the Denver's crew on board as well as Captain Smith of the American steamer Evelyn which was recently sunk by a mine, who was a passenger. In addition Captain Metcalfe reported that the Manhattan had on board fifty-six persons who had been rescued from the Denver.

The Denver, which was proceeding from Brunswick for New York, sent out a wireless call for help at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, reporting herself leaking and in distress.

STEAMSHIPS RESPOND TO CALL.

Many steamers, including the St. Louis, Manhattan, Lakonia, Megantic, El Dia, Bergendfjord, Corsican, Maryland, Vestrys and Van Der Duyn, received the call and hastened to the point where the Denver was supposed to be.

Przemysl Is New Permysl; Try This One

LONDON, March 24.—It is reported that the Russians have changed the name of Przemysl to Permysl, and that the latter will be used in all future official dispatches.

The "r" combination, which was such a trial to the tongues of so many, has been eliminated.

Those who had just begun to get around Przemysl without choking on the new start all over again. Try it—Permysl.

HIDE NAME IN DEATH OF CHOIR GIRL

WORCESTER, March 24.—The Worcester police, confronted for days by a remarkable series of efforts to balk their investigation of the death of Olive Shurtleff, the pretty choir singer, are now convinced that, on what proved to be the last day of her life, she exacted a promise from her parents to shield the name of the prominent Worcester man who for two years had been her secret sweetheart and who, since Christmas, had been known to them.

In this connection the statement of her father, Henry H. Shurtleff, to the authorities, is considered significant. He said:

"If Olive were alive I could tell something that would startle the city. If she were alive I would go through this thing to the end and I would compel her to assist me."

The unusual pressure that has been exerted to attempt to hush the police inquiry has increased the belief which is general in the Lakeview district that the secret sweetheart of the girl just laid in the cemetery at Boylston was a man of more than ordinary prominence. The police, however, have been unable to get either Miss Shurtleff's father or her mother to reveal this man's name, although the authorities are certain it is known to both.

CASE STILL OPEN.

Captain O'Day of the Inspectors' bureau said today that the case is still open and that there are several points yet to investigate.

Former schoolmates and business associates of Olive Shurtleff are insistent that the inquiry be pressed to the end. They declare that the secret

COLE SOBS AND TAKES ALL BLAME

After George W. Cole and his wife, Lorana T. Cole had pleaded guilty today to Chief Justice Aiken of the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court to larceny of $20,736 from the Collateral Loan Company, Cole sobbed out a plea for the blame and punishment to be placed on him.

Standing in the dock, with his weeping wife seated nearby, Cole said to the Chief Justice:

"I am to blame more than Mrs. Cole. Because of my love for her I wish I could take all the blame and punishment, so she could go home to the children. I want her to be happy."

Inspector Waite said Mrs. Cole started the Cole system of larceny of pledged goods before her marriage to Cole. This was her second marriage.

Mrs. Cole said, through her counsel, Fred Sheenan, that, after his divorce from her first husband, she tried to support herself and four children on eight dollars a week and could not do it. Hence her stealings. She was clerk for the Collateral Loan Company.

Chief Justice Aiken said that he would impose sentence at 2 o'clock, that he had made up his mind on Cole but wished to confer with his associate justices on the wife's case.

Gen. Pau May Lead Russians in Poland

LODZ, Poland, via Berlin and Amsterdam, March 24.—General Paul Pau of the French army is reported to have taken command of the Russian troops in the district of Warsaw. Other French officers have been sent to assist the Russians, and England is also preparing to send a number according to reports received at German headquarters here.

Says 30 Socialists Quit the Reichstag

LONDON, March 24.—A news agency dispatch from Geneva says that during the general vote upon the budget in the German Reichstag at Berlin, thirty Socialists left the sitting. Dr. Karl Liebnecht, the Socialist leader, who was the only member of the Reichstag to vote against the first war loan, voted against the budget, the dispatch adds.

BOMBARD PLANT AT ANTWERP

By HERBERT TEMPLE.
European Manager for the Boston American.

LONDON, March 24.—Another daring feat has been accomplished by British aviators operating against the Germans. Aviators of the royal naval air service flying across Belgium dropped eight bombs upon the German submarine works at Hoboken, near Antwerp, setting the plant on fire.

The following official announcement of this daring achievement was made today by the Admiralty through the government press bureau:

"British aviators have bombarded the German submarine construction plant at Hoboken, near Antwerp. Eight bombs were dropped, the works being set on fire.

"This aerial attack was conducted with great skill and daring, as the Germans had mounted high-angle guns with which to bombard hostile aerial craft along the Belgian coast."

Germans Rushing More Submarines

NEW YORK, March 24.—Germany already has 160 submarines and the government is working a force of 40,000 men night and day building more, according to Brigadier-General Samuel Pearson, who arrived today upon the Scandinavian-American liner Hall Olav. Brigadier-General Pearson, who was a quartermaster general in the Boer army, comes direct from Germany.

"I believe that Germany will win this war with her submarines," declared Brigadier-General Pearson. "When she gets her great fleet in operation in British and French waters, Germany will be able to starve England and France into submission."

Russians Destroy 42-Centimetre Gun

PETROGRAD, March 24.—The War Office announced today that one of the 42-centimetre mortars brought up by the Germans to reduce Osowiec had been destroyed by the Russian artillery.

U. S. BUSINESS BOOM IS INDICATED BY DAILY STOCK MARKET GAINS

A business boom in the United States is imminent evidently, unless stock markets have failed at last to be a barometer. A beneficial change is implied by the rise in the prices of securities and the extent of the dealings in them.

The New York Stock Exchange is the greatest security mart in the world and ever since it was established has been looked to to cast the shadow of coming events. The way that market acted Monday of this week and yesterday is decidedly significant of a great improvement in manufacturing and mercantile business.

And also possibly of an end soon to the war in Europe!

More than 608,000 shares were traded in upon the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. Measured by all standards of the past this is a big day's business. It is the biggest in many months and above the average of several years past, including peace times.

Not only was it a big market, but it was a bull market. The average closing price of twenty-five leading stocks was nearly $5 a share above the lowest of last year and almost $1 a share above the average of Monday, a day also signalized by a boom in stock market business and values.

Considerable significance was attached to the news from London on Saturday last that bets were being

Air Raid Upon England May Be Easter Sunday

AMSTERDAM, March 24.—Germany will launch her great aerial attack against England within two weeks, according to travelers who arrived here today from Berlin.

They stated that a great fleet of Zeppelins and aeroplanes had been concentrated at Brussels and Cologne and that these airships probably would set out on Easter Sunday if weather conditions were favorable.

A new Zeppelin, the ninth constructed since the war began, has arrived at Cologne, and another will be completed within a few days.

The Zeppelin raids on Paris and Calais, the travelers assert, were only tests to determine whether all were in good condition for the flight to England.

Reports received here from other sources state that German submarines are preparing for a raid as far south as Gibraltar, where they will attempt to block the straits by sinking ships there.

These reports are given little credence as the Straits of Gibraltar are more than eight miles wide.

Prussian Refugees in Koenigsberg

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, via Berlin and Amsterdam, March 24.—Great numbers of East Prussian refugees are fleeing to this city. Six thousand are already here.

TODAY'S MARKET SUMMARY.

Stocks opened higher both in Boston and New York, trading starting with prices still on the upward trend. Americans were the most active group on the London Exchange and had a better tone. Exchange there was 4.89.

Business was on a large scale in New York at the start and fluctuations by leaders were rapid. The early price range was narrow, however. There was less interest in motor issues than for some time. It was announced that $2,500,000 more gold had been engaged in Ottawa for shipment to New York.

February railroad earnings are more encouraging. Lehigh Valley reports that its net operating revenue increased $323,924. Baltimore & Ohio's net increased $1,006,683.

At the opening in New York Amalgamated was up ¼ at 61, Erie was up ¼ at 23⅜, Southern Pacific was up ½ at 85⅜, Northern Pacific was up ⅛ at 104⅜, Reading was up ⅝ at 146¼, Union Pacific was up ⅛ at 122⅛ and Steel was up ⅛ at 48.

In Boston American Zinc was up ⅛ at 28 and Alaska Gold was up ⅛ at 3⅝. Many local leaders were unchanged, holding yesterday's gains.

Wheat opened lower at Chicago. New York cotton prices advanced 5 to 7 points at the outset.

CREW HERE TELLS OF ATTACK

The story of the sinking of the three-masted schooner Wilfred M. of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, by the German converted cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, off the coast of Brazil, on January 14, was told today for the first time by the captain and members of the crew of the schooner who arrived in Boston on the British steamship St. Ronald from Pernambuco, Brazil.

They were Captain Cyrus W. Parks, Mate Sedley Young and Seamen Patrick Lanigan and Kenneth Iversen. The rest of the crew remained in Brazil. The captain and crew were prisoners for more than a month aboard the German cruiser. With the crews of several other vessels which had been sunk they were landed by the German cruiser at Pernambuco on February 18, having been pledged not to give aid to any of German's enemies.

While aboard the German warship the men heard a volley of shots and were told that six sailors had been executed for insubordination.

Captain Parks declares the ship of a neutral country, the Norwegian bark Samantha, was sunk by the German cruiser.

Said Captain Park of the Wilfred M.:

"We were bound from St. Johns, N. F., to Bahia, with a cargo of codfish. On January 14, while off Brazil, we came in sight of two steamers, one of which proved to be the cruiser Kronprinz Welhelm. The other vessel was the British steamship Highland Brae, which had just surrendered.

"The Kronprinz Wilhelm ran down on us. We were ordered to heave to. The German captain, after inspecting my papers, ordered myself, the mate and five seamen aboard his vessel. Then the cruiser deliberately rammed the Wilfred M., sinking her. Shortly after the Highland Brae was sent to the bottom by opening her seacocks and allowing her to fill.

"Several other merchant vessels met similar fates during the month we were aboard the cruiser, including the Norwegian bark Samantha.

"We were allowed on deck from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily, but were kept below without lights at night. One night we heard a volley of small arms and the next day we were told that five members of the cruiser's crew had been executed for insubordination.

"Finally, on February 18, the Kronprinz Wilhelm steamed up close to Pernambuco. The steamship Holger came out to meet us. Myself and over 200 others, passengers and members of the crew of vessels that had been sunk were transferred to the Holger, after all had been made to sign papers not to give aid to any of German's enemies.

"Before we left, the German captain made a speech in which he said he regretted having had to send our vessels to the bottom and hoped we wouldn't remember him unpleasantly because the fortunes of war had gone against us.

"The Holger landed us at Pernambuco."

1,750,000 IN GREAT BATTLE ALONG CARPATHIAN FRONT

LONDON, March 24.—Terrific battles, in which 1,750,000 men are engaged, are reported between the Russians and Austrians along the Carpathian front. The Russians followed the advantage of the fall of Przyemsyl by making a great plunge, which included simultaneous attacks on Dukla, Ungoh and Lupkow passes.

Reports from Vienna declare all attacks up to the present have been repulsed. The final result is still in doubt.

Conflicting reports have been received regarding the number of the defenders of Przemysl killed, wounded and captured.

It has been announced here that the Austrians lost 44,000 defenders of the city in killed and wounded and that 120,000 were captured. Dispatches from Petrograd give the number of captured as 119,602. From Vienna comes the statement of Baron Samuel Hazai, Hungary's minister of national defence, which declares that at no time did the defenders of Przemysl number more than 35,000 men, including all trench diggers and other military laborers.

Excellent conditions of surrender were obtained by the Austrian prisoners, according to information from Lemberg. The Austrian troops were cheered as they marched from the fallen city with the honors of war. The chief of the Russian commander's terms were as follows:

None of the captives to be sent to Siberia.

None of the captives should suffer military degradation.

Freedom of action for the civil population.

The Austrians to have the right to transport to territory held by the Austrian armies those killed and wounded during the fighting.

During the past month, it is declared, the starving garrison was reduced to eating moss and gnawing leather. The dearth of fruit or vegetables filled the city with scurvy, ordinarily a disease feared only at sea, while cholera and typhoid are also raging.

It is evident that the Czar's army is already following up its victory by pressing the Austrians back in the Carpathians and along the San, but there is no certain indication as to what line of attack will be followed.

Military experts say two courses lie open to the Russians, either to attack Cracow—the course expected to be taken—or to invade Hungary.

If both could be undertaken simultaneously, and successfully achieved, it is believed Austria would be forced to sue for peace.

Reports from Vancouver state that American guns, probably aided in the reduction of Przemysl, as several were shipped from there a number of months ago, said to have been for that purpose.

The Russian War Office announces, besides the capture of 117,000 men at Przemysl, the surrender of nine generals, ninety-three officers of the General Staff and 2,500 "officers and officials."

The number of guns and other war material captured is being calculated.

Two Austrian generals died of typhoid in Przemysl in February.

BUILD 10 BRITISH SUBMARINES AT FORE RIVER SHIPYARDS

Ten submarines for Great Britain, civil today answered the following questions:

"How many of your men are at work in Montreal?"

"I don't know—a number."

"Are they on your payroll here?"

"No."

"Will they get their jobs back here when they return?"

"They might."

"Were all the men now working on submarines in Montreal formerly employed here?"

"No, not all. They were hired by agents all over the country."

"Were any men from here escorted to the station and put on the train by Fore River officials?"

"No."

"Has Fore River shipped any parts to Montreal—any parts of submarines?"

"No. Early in the war, however, we sold them some tools for submarine work."

"Are submarines being built there complete?"

"Yes, as far as I know."

"Is that company a subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Company?"

"I don't know."

"Does that company belong to Mr. Schwab or has he sublet the contracts for the building of these submarines?"

"Ask him."

"Are you building any submarines at Fore River?"

"Yes, ten for Great Britain, to be delivered after the war, and seven for the United States."

"Will these for Great Britain be sent out on trial trips?"

"Yes, but not outside the three-mile limit. We cannot risk delivery till after the war."

It was learned that the Fore River yard will also build the hull of the new United States seagoing submarine. The contract for this submarine has been let to the Electric Boat Company of Groton, Ct., but that company sublet the contract for the hull to the Fore River people.

U. S. INSPECTORS ON GUARD.

It developed today that the Fore River yard is doing what work it is doing with the full knowledge of the United States government. Because seven American submarines are being built there, the yard is full of government agents and inspectors, who watch this work, and any violation of neutrality by shipments to combatants would undoubtedly come to their attention.

With recent activity in the yards, photographers have been absolutely barred, and the men have been warned not to talk to reporters. One man, one afternoon, was sent home with the word:

"Get your baggage ready. You go to Montreal tonight."

More than a score of others were given similar orders that afternoon. This particular man happened to meet, on the way home, a reporter who was also a personal friend, and they talked for a minute. The man did not mention his orders to prepare to go to Canada.

But when he arrived at the railroad station he was curtly told that he was not wanted for the Canadian work.

SCHWAB'S CONTRACT.

The AMERICAN told weeks ago how Schwab's contract with Great Britain, which provided for a high price and a bonus for speed, together with a penalty for delay, was hindered by American neutrality, and the story of how Mr. Schwab by a stroke transferred men and tools from Fore River to Montreal and there set about completing his contract was told exclusively in the AMERICAN.

In the absence of President Powell of the Fore River another high official today answered the following questions:

"How many of your men are at work in Montreal?"

"I don't know—a number."

"Are they on your payroll here?"

"No."

"Will they get their jobs back here when they return?"

"They might."

MANY ARE SAVED FROM THE DENVER

the dark night prevented a prompt location of the imperiled ship, but she was finally sighted at about noon yesterday by both the St. Louis and the Manhattan.

The St. Louis, which was bound eastward, had spent practically the entire twenty-one hours searching for the Denver, and had gone considerably south of her course in her quest.

The St. Louis and the Manhattan came up to the Denver about 4 o'clock, the Atlantic transport liner arriving a few minutes before the St. Louis.

The Denver then had a heavy list and seemed to be on the verge of going down.

As soon as the Manhattan came near, three boats were towed from the doomed vessel and carried the officers and crew and the few passengers to the rescue ship.

As the St. Louis sailed away on her voyage, the Denver seemed to have but a few more hours of life left, although she was still externally intact.

NEW YORK, March 24.—D. H. Raymond, vice-president and general manager of the Mallory and Clyde lines, said today:

"I cannot understand how the Denver could have sunk in mid-ocean as she was one of our best ships. She carried a crew of sixty-five men, all told, and was commanded by Captain Avery. The last report we had from the captain was that he had delivered his cargo of cotton safely at Bremerhaven and had sailed for New York on March 16. There were no passengers on board, but I understand the Denver was bringing back some members of the crews of the American steamships that had been sunk in the North Sea by German mines. I am sorry to hear such bad news."

The Denver was a single-screw steel steamship of 4,543 gross tonnage. She was built in 1901 by the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company of Wilmington, Del., to engage in traffic between New York and Galveston. She was 372 feet long, had a beam of forty-eight feet and a depth of hold of 24.5 feet.

During her years of sea service, the Denver proved herself to be a staunch vessel and had only one accident. That was on April 21, 1912 when she was in collision fifteen miles off Galveston with the Morgan line steamship El Sud and the latter was beached.

Kaiser Dies Soon; War Ends July 21,' Says Mme. Thebes

Mme. de Thebes, the world-famous French phophetess, who last year forecasted the war, even to the ravaging of Belgium, the invasion of France and events in Poland, in her "Almanac for 1915" prophesies the struggle will end four months from March 21 last.

Kaiser Wilhim II., Mme. de Thebes declares, "will soon die, or, anyhow, disappear."

"Germany," she adds, "is condemned to exist no longer, at least, as she now is."

British Victory in South Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 24.—The biggest battle yet fought between British and German forces in German Southwest Africa took place on Saturday in East Swakopmund, according to information received here today. A British force under Colonel Albert attacked the Germans, killing twenty, including three officers and wounding twenty-one others. The body of the German commander of artillery was found with half of his head blown away. Two fifteen-pounders, two Maxim guns, two ammunition wagons, other transport wagons, 170 rounds of artillery ammunition, 12,000 rounds of machine-gun ammunition and 210 prisoners were captured by the British.

U. S. WARSHIPS TO WATCH GERMANS

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Two destroyers ordered to San Juan by the Navy Department were got under way today to prevent any further attempts of German and other foreign ships in San Juan, Porto Rico, to leave without authority. Treasury officials also had under consideration steps to keep closer watch on outgoing ships at New York and Boston, from where reports of possible violations of neutrality have come.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced that Admiral Fletcher had sent the destroyer Warrington from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to San Juan, to preserve neutrality there.

Government officials today gave most of their attention to preventing the violation of Uncle Sam's neutrality by foreign ships now in American ports. This new phase of the international situation has stirred the authorities to activity and temporarily pushed aside interest in the reply to Great Britain's plan to starve out Germany.

The main points of the note to the allies are said to have been determined and the preparation of the document is under way. Three departments of the government, Navy, Treasury and Justice, got into action following the attempt of the Hamburg American liner Odenwald to leave San Juan without clearance papers.

The neutrality resolution passed in the closing hours of the last Congress was brought into play for the first time when proceedings were ordered by the Attorney-General against the ship. It was stated that further information would be awaited before any action under the criminal clause of the resolution was taken.

'Courtesy' Will Be New Watchword of New Haven Road

"Courtesy" will be the watchword of the New Haven Railroad Company in the treatment of its patrons, according to the suggestions in a placard bulletin issued to all branches of the road by President Elliott.

Mr. Elliott believes that the public appreciate courtesy from railroad employes. He knows that the employes appreciate courtesy from the public, and co-operation between the two should establish ideal relations between the public and its servants on the road.

Uric Acid in Your Food

Even dogs eat cat too much meat. Certainly many people eat their germs with their meals. Few eat enough exercise to purify a meat diet, for the kidneys are overworked. Then they suffer to get rid of that poison, but often a backache, dizziness, urinary disorder or some other slight symptom will show that the kidneys are weakening and need help. The time-tried remedy, then, is Doan's Kidney Pills.

A S. Somerville Man Says So:

P. Smith, 15 Hall St., S. Somerville, says: "Several months ago I suffered from rheumatic pains in the small of my back. At night I didn't get well cold in the morning I was all tired out. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief from the trial, and two boxes completely cured me. I have since had like a different person."

'INTELLECT WILL SOON RULE LOVE'

The day is coming when young people will fall in love intelligently, largely through their study of heredity, Dr. Eliza R. Cahill declared in a lecture on "Heredity in Relation to Sex Hygiene" at Evans Memorial.

"I believe the subject of heredity is a matter of education," said Dr. Cahill, "and the way to teach sex hygiene to boys and girls is to incorporate it with the study of heredity. That is what is needed to eliminate this sex problem. When parents educate their boys and girls along the line of heredity, we will have more thoughtful marriages and youth will fall in love more intelligently."

Mental and physical discipline for the girl in her teens was advocated by the speaker as a preventive of "nerves." It is due to a lack of this that the women of today are hysterical, emotional, neurasthenic and prone to invalidism.

"Many wage-earning women are half invalids, because they seek too much recreation in the evening and do not take the proper time to rest or eat nourishing food," said Dr. Cahill. "The girl who works cannot expect to indulge in the pleasures that the girl of leisure does and keep her health. It is certainly to be deplored, because recreation is the natural right of every girl.

"'Damaged Goods' is an intelligent presentation of one of our biggest problems, but I think we are not ready to open those plays to our young people yet."

'Cities Safer for Babies' 150,000 Could Be Saved

Dr. S. Josephine Baker, director of bureau of child hygiene, New York Department of Health.

Dr. Baker Says Boston is Doing Most Effective Medical Work.

"Boston is doing the most effective work in the United States in saving babies and still is doing it cheapest," Dr. S. Josephine Baker, director of the bureau of child hygiene of the department of health of New York, said at the annual meeting of the Milk and Baby Hygiene Association at the Copley-Plaza.

"The great proportion of deaths among babies are due to conditions that are a disgrace to civilization and which react on the mothers of the country. Throughout the United States 300,000 babies die under twelve months and fully one-half that number could be saved if we had the desire. Forty per cent. of the babies die because the mothers have been forced to work, or from over-feeding, disease resulting from bad nutrition or social diseases.

"Cities are the safest places for babies to be born today. It is the big cities that are doing the best work in saving babies. But the rural communities are now waking up to the seriousness of the conditions existing in them. The infant death rate in country districts is twice that of the large cities of the country."

Frank S. Hanson, Old Time Actor, Dead

OSSIPEE, N. H., March 24.—Frank Silas Hanson of Boston, old-time actor and hotel proprietor, is dead at his home here. He conducted the Howard House on Howard street, Boston, for many years after leaving the stage, and in 1913 became proprietor of the Carroll Inn at Ossipee. He had been suffering with heart and nervous troubles since September.

Threatens to Jail 28 to Stop Bribery

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 24.—Sheriff Dennis Shea, Judge Thomas Smith and Street Inspector Alexander Acsel, three defendants in the Terra Haute election case, have been ordered into the custody of the United States marshal by Judge Anderson for alleged tampering with government witnesses. Judge Anderson asserted that he would put all of the twenty-eight defendants in jail if he heard of any further attempts to influence or bribe government witnesses.

IS WIFE DESPITE DAKOTA DECREE

BROCKTON, March 24.—The divorce obtained in South Dakota January 12, 1903, against Mary D. Morse of Marion by Ellen H. Morse has been declared invalid in this State by Judge Chamberlain, who has allowed the petition of Mrs. Mary D. Morse to be named administratrix of Morse's estate and disallowed the similar petition of Isabella Crocker Morse, the second wife.

Morse died leaving practically no estate, but under the Workmen's compensation act the industrial accident board may pay a sum of about $7,800 to his dependents.

It was brought out that Morse married his first wife in 1877 and lived with her twenty-four years. He left her March, 1902, and went to South Dakota in May. He filed his libel October 15 of that year and on January 12, 1903, was granted a decree. He at once returned to Marion. Judge Chamberlain rules that Morse failed to establish a domicile in South Dakota, and that therefore his divorce and second marriage are not valid.

Antis Plan Fight Against Suffrage

NEW YORK, March 24.—Women opposed to women suffrage in the States of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, where amendments to the constitutions extending the franchise to women will be voted on this year, conferred here yesterday with Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and decided upon a vigorous campaign against the amendments.

A resolution was passed calling upon women in the four States to "lend every effort to so decisively defeat votes to women at the polls this Autumn that the citizens of these States will be relieved of this annoying agitation."

PROBE DEATH OF CHELSEA TEACHER

Medical Examiner Magrath will perform an autopsy today on the body of Miss Hazel M. Finley, twenty-one, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Finley of No. 24 Carmel street, Chelsea, who died at the Frost Hospital of lockjaw. She was ill only twenty-four hours, and the authorities are at a loss to know how she contracted the disease.

On Monday, she taught school as usual, and in the afternoon complained on not feeling well. Dr. Edward Powers was called and yesterday she was removed to the Frost Hospital, where every effort was made to save her life.

She was born in Chelsea, May 14, 1894, and was educated in the Carter Grammar, the Chelsea High School and the Salem Normal School. She was appointed a teacher in the Prattville School in 1913, and last September was transferred to the Williams school.

MISS HAZEL M. FINLAY, Chelsea school teacher, whose death from lockjaw is being investigated by Medical Examiner Magrath.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble, in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Advertisement.

WOBURN LEATHER FACTORY BURNED

The patent leather factory of Riley Brothers on Park street, Woburn, was burned out early today, with a loss estimated at $25,000 by John Riley, the senior partner.

Night Watchman James McKenzie heard two explosions at 3 o'clock, probably of naphtha, followed by flames in the first floor of the two and one-half story wooden factory. He raced to the nearest fire alarm box, arriving there at the same time with Patrolmen Edward McDonald and William Rooney, who had seen the flames from their routes.

The flames worked up through to the roof and burned out nearly all the interior. The First Baptist Church is near, and wooden tenements in the neighborhood added to the danger if the fire spread.

Mr. Riley figured the damage to the building at $5,000 and to stock and machinery at $20,000. There was a large stock of leather in process of getting a patent finish.

Much sympathy was expressed for the Riley brothers, John and Thomas, by their business associates today. They were burned out in Malden four years ago, moved to Woburn and suffered slight fire damage two years ago at the present location. Spring business was just picking up and a good season was being figured on when this last fire came.

HINT CHOIR GIRL PLEDGED SECRECY

sweetheart should be revealed and dealt with.

Mr Shortliff declared, in the course of his statement to the authorities:

"If my little girl were alive I'd tell you all about this affair, and I'd tell you something that would make people of Worcester wonder how such things can exist. But our 'little Stitch' (that's a pet name we used to call her) is dead, and I'd rather that those who sent her to her grave should remain unpunished than that her memory should be defiled.

"My little girl is dead. She was all the world to me, Mr. wife and I, and that she shall have perfect rest. If she were alive I could tell something which would surprise everybody. Now that she is dead, in this case shall die with her, for her sake I am concerned. If she were alive I would go through with it to the end and would stand by her."

GIRL KEPT SECRET.

The fact that Miss Shortliff made no dying statement is taken to indicate that she had resolved to go to the grave without revealing to anyone save her parents the name of the man the police seek to question. In this phase the case of the little choir singer is unique.

The Rev. John L. Sewall, pastor of the Lakeview Congregational Church, conducted Olive Shortliff's funeral at her home, Joseph P. Courtemanche, her betrothed, members of the choir in which she sang and relatives filled the house. George R. Cleveland and Mrs. F. M. Lawrence sang some of her favorite hymns.

When asked today concerning a report that a certain doctor's name had been given to the police in connection with the girl's death, Medical Examiner Baker said:

"The report the girl died from the effects of a drug is wrong. The autopsy showed death was due to blood poisoning, due to a certain treatment. I do not know whether this treatment was by the girl herself or by someone else. There is no way to tell positively on that point. Neither can I say whether the person was experienced in such treatment. But I am positive treatment was attempted."

Harvard Students Given $16,000 from Greenleaf Aid Fund

The Harvard University treasury is poorer by some $16,000 today because of the distribution of sixty-two Greenleaf Aid assignments.

Only freshmen and undesignated students participated in the plums, and scholastic efficiency in preparatory schools figured greatly in the assignment. Among the athletes honored were Billy Garrett, captain of the 1915 football team and H. J. Kelliher, the freshman tennis captain. The following Back Bay boys received awards ranging from $150 to $250: W. H. Hartwell, Boston; F. A. Bigelow, Salem; R. M. Cohen, Boston; H. E. Cox, Newtonville; H. W. Fox, Dedham; R. H. Garrison, Cambridge; M. S. Ginsberg, Roxbury; H. P. Goldstein, Salem; A. A. Granovsky, Fall River; W. C. Himmer, Lawrence; Harry Hoffman, Chelsea; M. Israel, Dorchester; S. Kaplowitz, Boston; V. B. Kellett, Hopedale; V. A. Kramer, Brookline; H. N. Mainzer, Brighton; C. A. Mendum, Roxbury; M. J. Meyer, Gardner; D. J. O'Keefe, Brighton; W. P. Palmer, Dorchester; M. Ritto, Roxbury; A. E. Seitz, Medford; W. M. Silverman, Cambridge; A. M. Sonnenend, Roxbury; W. B. Washburn, Dorchester, and E. Wolf, Dorchester.

South End Laundry Looted by Thieves

Thieves with an eye for clean linen stole an assortment of fresh laundered shirts, collars and cuffs early today from the Niagara Laundry on Troy street in the South End. They also stole an overcoat worth $65 and a suit of clothes. From the office of the Paris Paper Box Company in the same building they took a desk clock and pictures and then escaped.

A sweater belonging to Max Nigrosh, proprietor of the paper box company, was found partially burned on the floor. The police said the thieves might have tried to set fire to the building to cover up the robbery.

PATERSON READY FOR 'BILLY' SUNDAY

PATERSON, N. J., March 24.—Paterson will have to wait almost two weeks for "Billy" Sunday's arrival. Word has been received that the evangelist had again postponed the date and would open his campaign on April 4.

Sunday is recuperating at Winona Lake, Ind., from the strain of his eleven weeks' campaign in Philadelphia.

The announcement of the postponement did not dampen the ardor of the people of Paterson, who for several weeks have been in a ferment of excitement and enthusiasm in anticipation of the revivalist's coming. Yesterday was one of the busiest days that Sunday's assistants have had since they went to "prepare" the town.

Last night there were 500 neighborhood prayer meetings, the first rehearsal of the choir of 1,000 voices, the selection of the last of the 500 churchmen, who will act as ushers and the final inspection of the tabernacle on Broadway, which will house the meetings. It was estimated that fully 20,000 attended the prayer meetings.

RESCUE ORDER OF PILGRIM FATHERS

New plans, by means of which it is hoped to wipe out the growing deficit in the treasury of the United Order of Pilgrim Fathers, a fraternal insurance organization, will be announced today to the members of the order, who have been anxiously awaiting the approval of the insurance commissioners.

The new plan, in effect a 50 per cent assessment, with provisions for encouraging new members, and equalizing the insufficient assessments in past years on old members, must be accepted by the members of the organization to be effective.

George F. Bradstreet, governor and president of the order, said last night that if the members stand together and do their share, the present difficulty will soon be overcome. He did not predict as to what would happen if they failed to do so.

Mr. Bradstreet and Supreme Secretary Emra D. Jaquis, Jr., were closeted for more than an hour with William O. Richardson, chief clerk in the office of the insurance commissioner, going over the situation. Just what took place during the interview could not be learned, but Mr. Bradstreet stated that Mr. Richardson had expressed satisfaction with the plan which had been proposed by the officers to cover up the present financial condition of the organization.

It was learned that the insurance commissioner recently audited the affairs of the organization that something must be done to rectify conditions arising from the great indebtedness and the failure to pay death benefits. The latter stated the fact that during the year ending October 31, 1914, the claims incurred amounted to $134,000, while the assessments yielded but $106,708.62.

Egyptian Bride to Fight Divorce
Mrs Storey Denies All Accusations

Mrs. Sarina F. Storey, who was born in Egypt, shown in a striking pose in native costume.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Mrs Sarina F. Storey, who located her husband, Frank De Rainos Storey, Harvard graduate and member of a wealthy Long Island, New York, family here after a search of a year and a half, is pleading to stubbornly contest the suit for divorce he has brought.

Many sensational details of their twisted romance, which began when Storey met and wooed his Egyptian bride in Paris are expected when the case comes to court.

Storey first charged that his wife deserted him in 1912, two years after their marriage. Now he has added the accusations that she was seen too often in the company of a native Egyptian in Cairo and that she was an inveterate gambler.

Mrs. Storey retained a firm of San Francisco attorneys to fight the case in her behalf.

Mrs. Long today denied that Mrs Storey had made accusations against her.

She located her husband here after a hunt which extended across the continent

COHEN AGAIN MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY

NEW YORK, March 24.—Nathan Cohen, "man without a country," who has traveled 22,000 miles on the ocean on a $10 ticket will start back for Brazil Saturday. He has lived aboard the liner Vasari since last May, with admittance denied him both here and in Brazil, because of his mental condition. Unless all signs fail, he will be back in New York harbor again in six weeks after making 11,000 more miles. Then his friends believe will make a real attempt to have him landed.

Cohen's last sea voyage seemed to benefit him greatly, and physicians believe that when the Vasari docks in Brooklyn again he will be well. Then the bar to his admittance to the United States will be removed.

If he is finally permitted to land, friends plan to put him aboard another ship and send him to Russia where he has relatives.

Police Guard Over Gunpowder Wagon; Driver Arrested

NASHUA, N. H., March 24.—A two-horse load of gunpowder, estimated to contain at least a ton of explosive, occupied the pitchers' box on the South Common ball grounds, guarded by Patrolman John W. Mansfield.

The driver, who says he is James McCarthy of Lowell, is under arrest on a charge of drunkenness.

The load started from Maynard, Mass., and was destined for Concord, N. H., for distribution among New Hampshire dealers. McCarthy had evidently driven over the route before, for he tried to tell the officers at whose stable he wished to put up.

The police are now investigating to see if all the laws governing the transportation of explosives have been complied with.

ENTER CONTEST NOW AND GO TO FAIR AS AMERICAN'S GUEST

It's a long way to San Francisco.
It's a long way to go.
It's a long way to see the Expo.
To see greatest Fair I know.
Goddess o' Boston Common,
Heavenly Bronze Statue,
It's a long, long way to the Fair at Frisco,
But we'll SURE get there.
—For The Town Crier.

Have you given IT up as something impossible to attain?

Don't do it! Reconsider!

Remember that rhyme about the man who lived in our town, and he was wondrous wise—remember it?

Do you know what made him wondrous wise?

They say in "our town" 'twas solely because he read the daily and Sunday AMERICAN, and in reading used both his eyes.

In other words he was wide-awake to what to read and how to read. With both eyes open upon the pages of the AMERICAN, he never missed any of the big opportunities it opened up to him and its hundreds of thousands of other readers.

He knows a good thing when he sees it.

So it happened when with the other town fathers he was seated around the stove in the town's general store, and when they had exhausted politics and the war and the time for planting the first crops and the weather, and had turned to the luxuries of life and to extolling the World's Fair, and to telling how the women folks were raking and scraping and skimping here and there in the hope of sending Mary Jane or William Henry to Frisco—

CRACKS A SMILE.

So it happened that this wise townsman's face broadened into a smile, whereat his friends wondered.

"Wherefore?" they ask.

"I have a reason," he replies.

"What is it? Share it with us."

"Sure thing."

You've guessed it already.

Now you KNOW he has been reading his AMERICAN with both eyes open.

He tells them about the big "ad" he had read in the AMERICAN. Yes, that's it—and of its unparalleled offer of twenty-five first-class, de luxe, all-expenses-paid, absolutely cost-free trips to see the stupendous Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco.

And they agree with him that there's no need raking and scraping and skimping at home any longer.

as they can all enter the AMERICAN'S California Expositions contest.

"I have enrolled," he tells them. "Go and do likewise if you want to make yourselves and the home folks happy."

And they do.

Simple, isn't it?

It is simple.

Read that same big "ad" in today's AMERICAN, and then go and do as he did—enroll in the contest and be happy.

THE ONLY WAY.

For thousands who perhaps have already given IT up as something impossible to attain, it is the ONLY way. And when you have read the "ad" and have come to think it over, don't you think it is the EASIEST?

For now you see that IT—the coast-to-coast trip at the expense of the Boston AMERICAN—is no longer unattainable. It is within your grasp.

In a nutshell it is this:

The twenty-five winners in this great voting competition will be taken to California in Pullmans, will see all the gorgeous natural scenery on the way, pass through and see both Expositions out in California, and make the return journey over another route—and all absolutely without any expense whatsoever.

Just one more word:

Read the big "ad" in today's AMERICAN and start NOW in the Contest.

Deny That McAdoo Has Had Relapse

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Official denial has been made at the Treasury Department of reports that Secretary McAdoo has suffered a relapse and is in a serious condition. It was said that the Secretary, who was removed to his home from Providence Hospital was resting easily.

It was admitted, however, that Mr. McAdoo had postponed the operation until the malady was in a somewhat advanced stage and that, therefore, more time would be required for his complete recovery than would have been needed had the operation been performed several weeks ago.

Aged Widow of "Stonewall" Jackson Dead

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 24.—Mrs. Mary Anna Jackson, widow of General Thomas Johnathan Jackson, the famous Confederate leader, better known as "Stonewall" Jackson, died at her home here today.

Mrs. Jackson had been in failing health for a number of years. About a year ago she underwent an operation on her head. Since the death of her daughter, Mrs. Julia Christian, the aged widow of the Southern hero has lived with her grandchildren.

Mrs. Jackson was born at Mecklenberg, N. C., the daughter of Rev. Robert Hall Morrison, a Presbyterian minister. She married Jackson in 1857. Three years later her husband was called away by the war and she was made a widow in 1863, when he was killed at the battle of Chancellorsville.

Though she had little of the world's goods Mrs. Jackson would never accept help and in 1907 the aged woman asked the withdrawal of a bill introduced in the Legislature providing a pension of $100 a month for her.

Mrs. Jackson for many years served as president of the Stonewall Jackson Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and also wrote in her leisure hours at her famous husband's order the little "Memoirs of Stonewall Jackson."

Hope Norman Is Engaged To Be Bride of E. C. Bacon

Miss Hope Norman as she appeared in the costume of a grenadier in the last Vincent Club theatricals.

The engagement is announced of Miss Hope Norman of the Back Bay younger set, member of the Vincent Club and participator in the celebrated club theatricals, to Elliott Cowdin Bacon of New York, Harvard graduate, crack oarsman and third son of former Ambassador and Mrs. Robert Bacon.

The announcement comes from Aiken, S. C., where Mr. and Mrs. Norman and their daughter are enjoying the Southern season. It is of high society interest, for the Norman and Bacon families are wealthy and prominent.

Miss Hope Norman is the only daughter of the Guy Normans. In the last Vincent Club theatricals she was one of the grenadiers, her beauty adding its due part to the general charm of the company.

She inherits the winning grace and society popularity of her mother, and references in the newspapers from time to time of Mrs. Norman's social activities have usually included allusion to the girlish promise of the daughter and the brilliant success she would make when she entered society.

CLAIMED AS BOSTONIANS.

The Guy Normans are claimed as Bostonians on account of Mrs. Norman being a native of this city, but they are really cosmopolites. Mrs. Norman was formerly Miss Louisa Palfrey. She was married to Guy Norman of Newport, graduate of the Harvard class of 1890. They have a Boston home at No. 226 Beacon street, a Newport residence and a house on Massachusetts avenue, Washington.

In the Summer gayeties at Newport the Guy Normans are associated with the James F. Kernochans, the Harry Lehrs, the William Watts Shermans and others in the social lead.

Miss Norman is a niece of Mrs. E. Preble Motley of Beacon street and Mrs. Bryce J. Allan (Anna Palfrey) of Beacon street on her mother's side, and Mrs. Frederick Prince (Abbie K. Norman) of Boston and of Miss Mabel Norman of Newport on her father's side.

Elliott Cowdin Bacon, who is to wed Miss Norman, is known in college athletics for his rowing.

BORN IN WESTBURY, L. I.

He was born at Westbury, L. I., twenty-seven years ago and is now living in New York city, where his parents have a house at No. 1 Park avenue. He prepared for college at Groton school and, following in the footsteps of his father and his elder brothers, Robert L. and Gaspar G. Bacon, he came to Harvard, where he was graduated in 1910.

In college he upheld the Bacon rowing traditions. He captained his freshmen crew and rowed in due time on the varsity.

Mr. Bacon's father was formerly assistant Secretary of State and recently Ambassador to France. He is one of the Fellows of Harvard College.

Mr. Bacon's mother was formerly Miss Martha W. Cowdin, from whose family the son derives his middle name.

MAJ. LANGHORNE'S RECALL MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Developments here have served to deepen rather than lessen the mystery with which the administration is attempting to surround the recall of Major George T. Langhorne from his post as military attache at Berlin.

There were indications that the facts are being concealed less for reasons of state than to avoid embarrassment.

It was admitted in official circles that for the present Major Langhorne would be engaged in preparing the reports of his observations of the German war operations. He will do this work in connection with the war college and general staff.

It became definitely know, however, that important as Major Langhorne's data are regarded, his reports on the results of the unusual opportunities afforded him by the Germans for studies in the war zone do not cover the case by any means. It can be said that his departure was precipitated by incidents which the War and State Departments have reasons of their own for trying to keep a close secret.

What is being concealed by the administration in Washington, however, is no secret in several other quarters. There is good foundation for the statement that all the peculiar circumstances in the Langhorne case are known not only in government circles in Berlin, London and Paris, but also in the diplomatic corps in Washington. It may be said further that some foreign officials are inclined to take more satisfaction out of the affair than do officials of this government.

Such evidence as is obtainable here in the case points strongly to the conclusion that the recall is based chiefly on certain strongly pro-German communications sent in Major Langhorne's name.

College Students Ill With Smallpox

CHAMPAGNE, Ill., March 24.—Authorities of the University of Illinois today issued a statement that no apprehension was entertained on account of three mild cases of smallpox, which have been discovered among students. H. G. Perry, William Mandeville and Rolla Shaddock, the three victims of the disease, were isolated, and William O'Connell, who was exposed, was quarantined at his home in Springfield. Twenty-five other students have been vaccinated.

Boy of 3 Is Branded With Red Hot Iron

NEW YORK, March 24.—Three-year-old Dan McKellop was playing in a vacant lot across from his home at No. 152 Neptune avenue, Jersey City, when some boys whose names have not been learned branded the initials "A. H. N." with a red hot iron on his left thigh. The letters were three inches high.

The little fellow ran home screaming. He was so frightened he could not tell his mother what was wrong with him. When Mrs. McKellop was bathing the youngster last night she discovered the burn.

Divorces Former Tennis Champion

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Caroline K. Whitney has been granted a divorce from Robert N. Whitney, former tennis champion, on the grounds of extreme cruelty.

Miss Vivian Neely, grown daughter of the plaintiff by a previous marriage, was her corroborating witness. Mrs. Whitney said her husband began a course of studied neglect immediately after their marriage at Sacramento in June, 1909.

RICE ON LISTS FOR MAYOR OF NEWTON

Alderman Abbott B. Rice of No. 196 Summer street, Newton Centre, now serving his third term, has announced that he will be a candidate for Mayor of Newton next Fall on the platform of a business administration. Mr. Rice, who is in business in Boston, says he believes that, with a business administration, conditions in Newton will rapidly improve.

His friends, who have been urging him to announce his candidacy, point to his aldermanic experience as qualifying him for administration of municipal affairs. Mr. Rice reserves the right to withdraw his candidacy in favor of any other business candidate whom he may favor.

TELLS HOW CABOT ACTED ON LINKS

The late Louis Cabot, the Brookline and Milton sportsman whose $2,000,000 will is being contested by his daughter, Mrs. L. Vernon Briggs, sometimes characterized golfers at Aiken, S. C., as "fools and idiots" if they played too close to him, according to a deposition read at the will hearing today.

The deposition was made by Elijah E. Nims, an Aiken caddy. Another deposition was from S. C. Mackrell, golf professional at Aiken. This was submitted by Charles F. Choate, Jr., head counsel for the Cabot will. It read in part:

"I found Louis Cabot a very pleasant man. His right leg was a little shorter than the left. It was remarkable how he got around the links. He handled himself exceedingly well. He was as bright as a dollar. He was peculiar in his manner, which had nothing to do with his money. He was a determined man and you could not bluff him. His mind did not impress me as weak."

DOCTOR TESTIFIES.

Dr. Richard H. Harte of Philadelphia, witness for the will, who began testimony yesterday, finished direct and cross-examination today. Dr. Harte treated Mr. Cabot in 1907 at Northeast Harbor, and knew him socially the next two seasons, being Mr. Cabot's guest in 1909 at the Long Shooting Club in Canada.

At the opening of court today Dr. Harte was questioned in continued direct testimony by John N. Hall, associate counsel with Mr. Choate for the will. He said he saw Mr. Cabot at Long Point in 1911, after Mrs. Cabot's death.

"It was rather a painful visit," said the physician, "Mr. Cabot showed emotion. Tears trickled down his cheeks."

Later Dr. Harte met Mr. Cabot again.

"Did you observe," asked Mr. Hall, "anything in Mr. Cabot to indicate he was mentally unsound?"

Witness said: "No, there was nothing in his manner to indicate that."

FREQUENT COLD BATHS.

The principal habit of Mr. Cabot's, which Dr. Harte noticed at Long Point, was his frequent cold baths, against which the physician warned him.

Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for Mrs. Briggs, took Dr. Harte for cross-examination, especially on Mr. Cabot's duck shooting.

"How did you catch the ducks?" asked Mr. Whipple.

Dr. Harte replied with emphasis: "Way, shoot them on the fly, as good sportsmen always do."

There was a bit of testimony regarding gunning "blinds," about recovering birds which fell in the water and other sporting details.

Questioned as to his reasons for coming up to Boston as witness, Dr. Harte said:

"I refused at first to come here to testify, as I hate court work, but I finally decided to come when I heard that there was a conspiracy used on Mr. Cabot's mental condition."

Woman Runs Jitney 'Bus Wins Pawtucket Nickels

Mrs. Dohring the Second "Jitneyess" to Follow the New Calling in Rhode Island.

PAWTUCKET, R. I. March 24.—Question: Can Pawtucket have its "Jitneyess" as well as Providence?

Mrs. S. Edith Dohring is the answer.

A "Jitneyess," to coin a word, is a feminine driver of a jitney 'bus or jitney car and the latter as the world now knows—is a motor vehicle which carries passengers for a jitney, or nickel.

As the jitney lines carry passengers who, in most cases, would otherwise ride on the trolley lines, the trolley corporations love a jitney 'buss as long way off.

Mrs. Dohring is the wife of Richard Dohring of No. 742 Weeden street. Mr. Dohring is chauffeur for Archibald Kent, proprietor of the Narragansett Milling Co. of Providence.

Mrs. Dohring recently bought a car, in which she has been taking her husband to and from work. This wifely duty still left her plenty of time — also the car — on her hands. Her friends began to joke her a little, to the effect that she ought to start a jitney route and make the car pay for itself.

The friends cited the case of Mrs. Maud M. Randall of Olneyville, who is running a jitney auto line between Olneyville square and Exchange place in Providence. Mrs. Randall has been quoted as saying that her first week's receipts netted her over $100.

Mrs. Dohrink took her friends at their joking word. She likewise took out a city license to operate a jitney route between Trinity square and Fairlawn.

ARREST NINE IN GARMENT STRIKE

Six pickets in a garment workers' strike and a strike organizer from New York were arrested under the new sidewalk doltering ordinance on Brattle and Elm streets at 9 o'clock today, and two pickets were arrested on a charge of assault and battery.

The arrests were made after complaint by the proprietors of a clothing establishment in the Brattle street district that pickets from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America had been hanging around the employes' entrance, trying to get nonstriking operatives to join a strike that has been in progress for several days.

POLICE SENT TO SHOPS.

Captain Sullivan of Court square police station sent a squad of patrolmen to the scene today. The police found two score men, whom they describe as strikers and pickets, gathered along Brattle and Elm streets under the leadership of Samuel Silverman of New York, the New York organizer, who is staying at No. 29 Hollis street while in Boston, on an unknown operative.

The patrolmen were instructed to warn all loiterers to move on and, if the warning was not heeded, to make arrests, as provided in the new ordinance. The specific charge in such case is saunntering and loitering.

Silverman, the organizer, was arrested on this charge, also the following pickets: Alphonso Cieri, Nicholine Faricelli and Joseph Polsonlli of No. 178 Cottage street, East Boston, Michael Olevo, also of No. 22 Hull street, North End, Edward Lorenzo of No. 195 Cottage street, East Boston, and Max Linvich of No. 98 Brighton street, North End.

The police found on Silverman, the organizer, red handbills, printed in black type, in Polish, Italian, Hebrew and English, with appeals to the nonstrikers.

BREAK SALOON WINDOW.

About that time Paolo Cardonna of No. 15 Henchman street came along, escorting to work his wife, Marie, and her sister, Viennetti. The police say two men attacked them and that in the scuffle the two men fell through a plate glass window in the saloon of Margot Brothers at No. 9 Elm street.

The police arrested on the spot Michael Desmondi of No. 34 Clark street as one of the assailants, and later arrested Max Silverman of No. 23 Billerica street as the other.

Dutch Steamship Escapes Submarine

LONDON, March 24.—A dispatch from Rotterdam reports that a German submarine attempted to torpedo a Dutch steamer, the Orange Nassau, five miles from Lindar lightship, in the North Sea yesterday afternoon. It states that the torpedo passed sixty yards in front of the steamer.

NEW WOMAN IN OSBORNE CASE

NEW YORK, March 24.—Another mysterious woman, who declared she had received letters from the equally mysterious "Oliver Osborne," appeared today in the Osborne-Tanzer-Kaiser love tangle.

Assistant United States District Attorney Hirschenstein announced that the woman had communicated with him telling him she had been in correspondence with "Oliver Osborne" and had a number of letters, some of which were signed "O."

Certain expressions and phrases in the letters, similar to those in letters received by Miss Rae Tanzer and Rose Helen Kaiser, indicated strongly that the same person had written the love epistles received by all three women.

Mr. Hirschenstein refused to give the woman's name and address, but said that she might be present in Federal Court at the arraignment of Miss Tanzer on the charge of fraudulently using the mails. This charge against Miss Tanzer grew out of her breach of promise suit against James W. Osborne, former Assistant District Attorney.

During the morning Justice Newburger in the Supreme Court granted the request of counsel for James W. Osborne to compel Miss Tanzer to file a bill of particulars in her $50,000 suit against the noted lawyer.

The four questions which James W. Osborne's counsel wish to compel Miss Tanzer to answer are these:

"Were did Osborne propose to her, and when? What did he say, and where did he ever pose as Miss Tanzer's husband?"

Counsel for Miss Tanzer will have five days in which to file this bill.

Cycle Crash Fatal to Malden Man

William J. Sheehan of Malden, whose skull was fractured in a motorcycle accident in West Newbury Sunday, died early today in the Anna Jaques Hospital at Newburyport without having recovered consciousness. His wife was at his death bed.

Mr. Sheehan, who was about thirty years old, was riding on a two-seated motorcycle with Jacob Silliker of Malden. While speeding at a terrific clip along the West Newbury road they struck a sand spot which swerved their machine into a telegraph pole. Mr. Silliker's leg was broken. He is in the Hale Hospital at Haverhill.

RICH HARVARD MAN IS OFF TO WAR

Edwin Carleton Wilson, a Harvard junior and member of a wealthy Detroit family, is off to war. Wilson will drive a motor ambulance for the American hospital in Paris and says one of the ambitions of his life will be realized if he can once get onto the firing lines. He has contributed an ambulance to the Red Cross outfit which he is taking with him Saturday when he sails from New York on the Touraine. The ambulance is freely placed at the disposal of the Red Cross service, but Wilson himself does not expect that he will be employed to drive his machine.

"Yes, it is true that I am going to the war theatre abroad," Wilson said today. "But not to Europe via Florida, where my mother is spending the Winter. Dear mother tried her hardest to convince me that the United States with its calmer atmosphere was the better place for me, but I finally won her consent to my trip abroad.

"This is not exactly an errand of mercy with me. I am looking for experience, a chance to broaden out on the war fields of Europe and see men as they really are minus the finished veneer of society or that from the everyday routine of an uneventful existence. There is a chance to meet royalty and one gets a broader view of life whatever angle you look at it from.

"It is the chance of a lifetime, believe me; the nearer I can get to the firing lines the happier I will feel. I was in Belgium prior to the declaration of war last Summer and spent a month in Paris and a fortnight in Berlin.

"I think that the allies will win this war—or at least that is my impression received from letters that I have received from friends now in the war zone. If Italy enters the fray, I think it safe to say that the war will not last long after July 1."

End Hearing on Education Bill

Governor Walsh's recommendation for the establishment of a correspondence school system of education closed today before the legislative Committee on Education with but a word of opposition.

William J. Robinson of Revere told the committee that as a taxpayer he feared that the appropriation to bring education home to the people of the State would "never stop."

"I pay $600 in taxes a year," Mr. Robinson was saying, when Representative Armstrong of the committee interrupted to say:

"You're lucky to own that much property."

The opposition was closed, Mr. Robinson alone being the only person to raise a word of opposition against the plan.

H. L. Barrell, formerly a professor at Harvard, indorsed the movement today as one of "extremely wide humanitarian interest." Professor John Hardy Ropes of Harvard, the Rev. Geo. A. Hall and Attorney A. J. Lincoln Filene attended the hearing, but did not find it necessary to again speak on the subject.

Another U. S. Ship Held Up by British

BERLIN, March 24.—(By wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The following announcement is made today by the Overseas News Agency:

"Captain Hanssen and First Officer Jurssen, both American citizens, of the American steamer Oleson, while northward of Scotland on a voyage from Savannah to Bremen, were deprived of command by officers and men of the British auxiliary cruiser Celtic, who boarded the ship. The British declared their intention of sinking a German submarine, if opportunity presented, by ramming it with the American steamship."

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When constipated or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomachache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless fruit laxative; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good Druggists.—Advertisement.

STARS TO SING FOR POLISH FUND

The concert to be given in the Boston Opera House tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in aid of the Polish relief fund has no play on charity to attract the public, for a remarkable number of artists will appear in a most unusual program.

Madame Marcella Sembrich is coming over from New York for this concert and she will sing two groups of songs. Madame Antonietta Szumowska and Messrs. Kunze and Stein of the Symphony Orchestra and a number of members of Josef Adamowski's ensemble classes in the Conservatory of Music will play Saint-Saens' fine septet for strings, piano and trumpet. Madame Julie Opp will give recitations.

Former Governor Curtis Guild will make an address.

Timothee Adamowski, the well-known violinist, will play twice and Madame Bernice Fisher-Butler and Madame Zoela Swartz-Morse will give a scene from Humperdinck's opera, "Hansel and Gretel," with the performance of which they were so prominently identified during past opera seasons.

There will be a large orchestra with Wallace Goodrich as conductor. The program will begin at 2:15 sharp.

HYDE AT TRIAL OF DR. TURNER

Dr. Harold R. Webb, one of the two physicians who labored to save the life of Miss Irene Richardson, the daughter of the town treasurer of Arlington, for whose death Dr. Augustus W. Turner is being tried, will conclude his recital today, of Miss Richardson's dying statement.

William Hyde, who was named by Miss Richardson in this statement was an anxious listener to the start of Dr. Webb's testimony.

Mrs. Marie Hanson, to whose home Miss Richardson went after the operation, testified Monday that the girl was sent there by a Dr. Turner who had an office in the Pelham at No. 74 Boylston street, but declared that she couldn't identify Dr. Augustus W. Turner as the physician who had sent Miss Richardson to her, and called at her home to treat the girl, and yesterday Robert W. Turner, a chiropodist at No. 74 Boylston street, testified that he had been in the building for seventeen years, and that he had seen the defendant, Dr. Augustus W. Turner, about the building for six or seven years.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "perk up" the appetite, 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.—Advertisement.

Singer Cheers for "Made in America"

Dainty Rene Delling Says We Are Going to Make Fashions for the World

Two poses of Miss Rene Delling.

DAINTY little Rene Delling, who sings Leonie D'Audoresi in "The Lilac Domino" at the Majestic Theatre, who is an ardent advocate of the "Made in America" label, says she has stumbled upon an international conspiracy, of vast importance to both the women and the men of this country.

Lady Duff-Gordon, Miss Delling says, is at the bottom of the affair. It seems that a few weeks ago this titled Englishwoman sent twenty-eight models of gowns to England and France to be copied and sold in the establishments which Lady Duff-Gordon maintains in London and in Paris. The material were all made in America, the models were fashioned here and the output was designed for only the most exclusive society—that which is spelled with a capital S.

"No," said Miss Delling, "it is not just a temporary result of the war. Lady Duff-Gordon assured me that she has been planning and collaborating with important personages in America for several years to put upon the market materials of American make so rich and distinctive in quality and design that the 'Made in America' stamp will mean in materials what 'sterling' means on silverware. There have been many promises of this kind made before, but this time it is more than a promise. It is a plan already in active operation. Of course, the war hastened the matter—brought it to a head, so to speak, but those twenty-eight gowns in distinctively American style, fine and material are performing a mission the effects of which will be felt on the tariff and on American industries long after the great war is ancient history."

Then Miss Delling permitted a peep into her wardrobe and even into the inside workings of some of the fluffy, delightsome things which are designated as "gowns," and not "dresses." True enough, there on the inside of almost every one was the little silk ribbon tag with an American signature. "I paid $30 for that in a department store here and $85 for that, coming in the duty, abroad," she said, displaying two very lovely kimonos. "Now which is the nicest?" and the reply was obvious.

A Banquet of Seaweed

Dishes Made from Some of the 5,000 Species

A SHORT while ago a banquet was held at which seaweeds only were served, in various fashions, each dish being thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

This was by no means altogether a freak meal, for many very appetizing dishes can be made from different seaweeds.

Thousands of Japanese and Chinese live almost entirely on seaweed. In Japan about 600,000 people are employed in preparing edible seaweed. China alone consumes about $600,000 worth of food made from seaweed every year. These facts apart, there is no reason why the most fastidious epicure should "turn up his nose" at dishes of properly prepared weeds of the sea.

Excellent soup can be made from boiled seaweed, and, when thin and cold, it also forms a delightful jelly.

One often hears of the edible birds' nests of China. These are all made of seaweed by birds of the shore.

In Wales a large quantity of seaweed is eaten in the form of various dishes. The Welsh people make, for instance, small, flat cakes, called "sowie bread," from seaweed.

Irish and Scottish fishermen often make a meal of grilled seaweed. They roll the weed over a red-hot poker in order to grill it. They also make a tasty dish out of seaweed stewed with milk.

From certain kinds of seaweeds a transparent substance, called "algin," can be obtained, after it has been boiled. "Algin" is used for making sweetstuffs, especially gums and jujubes.

Lecturing at the Royal Institute about three years ago a learned professor, lamenting the English disregard of seaweed as a valuable foodstuff, described it as "nutritious, economical and easily available."

There are over five thousand different species of seaweed in existence, and not all, of course, are suitable for food. It is interesting to know, however, that not a single variety of poisonous seaweed has yet been discovered.

There are very many other uses to which seaweeds are put. For instance, in the making of certain cloth, for trimming women's hats, in the preparation of several excellent medicines, for obtaining that valuable drug iodine, and for getting several useful salts, such as sodium, magnesium and salts of potash.

Then, too, farmers in certain seaboard districts use seaweed as fertilizer, and it may astonish some people to know that shoes, boots, golfballs, picture frames, electric switchboards and even "marble" floors use up much of the seaweed that is collected.

There are seaweed "farms" in the Channel Islands, with regular harvesting seasons. On the British coast alone over 400,000 tons of seaweed are collected every year to supply the growing demand for "ocean jetsam."

A Man and His Wife

Isabel Astonishes John in a Discussion About Mrs. Simmons

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXIV.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

ON the evening on which Isabel Hamilton suspected her husband of going out of the house to telephone to Adelaide Simmons, she was too unhappy to want to talk. When, after twenty minutes' absence, John returned, smoking the cigar that had been his ostensible reason for making a trip to the corner, he found his wife in her own room, busy sewing. There was one thought in her mind. She must know if John had telephoned. Yet—what good would it do to ask? But even as she reasoned thus with herself, the words she had been thinking sprang to her lips.

"My dear," she said gently, "you need not have gone out to telephone. If you had any private matter to talk about, I could have come in here and closed the door."

She did not lift her eyes from her work as she spoke, nor did she look up when her husband replied. She would not embarrass him further by seeing his discomfiture—if he felt any.

"Oh, I had to go out anyway," he said lightly, secure in his belief that his wife did not know who had called him up. Had not Adelaide told him just how over the wire that she had not intimated to the maid who she was—had, indeed, told the girl that she was calling up on a matter of business? This last statement had evidently been forgotten by Cynthia. But never having heard of Mrs. Simmons, she could not have suspected who the speaker was.

His cigar had gone out, and he paused to light it again before making any further explanation to his wife. When several long puffs had satisfied him that the cigar was drawing properly, he continued:

"I never like to bring business home anyway, and I do not think it quite agreeable to you or fair to the other fellow to talk business here in my home. It may be mistaken delicacy on my part, but I think such telephone conversations are best conducted in a booth where they are overheard by nobody."

"I see," she said.

SHE LISTENS AND KEEPS ON WITH HER SEWING

She kept on stitching, and he stood in front of her, watching her swift fingers. She was reflecting that she might tell him that she knew who had called him up, who it was to whom he was not willing to telephone while his wife was within earshot. Or, she might make him uncomfortable by suggesting that few of the business houses with which he had dealings were on the River-side Central. Yet he could reply to that implied accusation that many businesses men lived uptown and could call from their homes out of office hours. But what was the use of her uttering her suspicions? She remembered John's sentence of some days ago:

"What a man tells his wife depends on how he thinks she is going to receive it."

Were she to tell him her suspicions what would he tell her in return? Would it be the truth? And how would she receive it? She felt as if she hardly knew herself. Married life was so complex, and she had supposed it so simple. She sighed and her husband laid his hand on her fingers.

"Dear," he said kindly, "you are tired. I know you are or you would not sigh so. Put down your work now and come into the living room and let's have a pleasant chat. There is no hurry time in the day for you to sew without wearing out your nerves and straining your eyes to do it at night. What are you making anyway?"

Yet she stopped her thimble and folded up her sewing. "I will stop now," she remarked, "for I am tired." She rose as she spoke to her feet she did not go toward the living room. Instead, she went over to her bureau and began to unfasten her collar.

"Aren't you coming into the other room with me?" John asked. "Or are you going to put on a wrapper first? That would be wise, for then you could rest better."

"I am not coming into the living-room at all," she told him. "I am so tired that I am going to bed."

"But it isn't quite 9 o'clock yet," he expostulated.

"I know it."

He looked at her puzzled. Then he came to her and put his arm about her.

ISABEL REPLIES IN A WAY TO AMAZE JOHN

"Darling," he asked, "aren't you well?"

"I am quite well," she answered.

"Then are you only tired—or is there something else the matter?"

"I told you I was tired," she said, disengaging herself from his encircling arm, "and anything else that is the matter you would not care to know."

"What care to know!" he echoed. He had withdrawn his arm, but he still stood close to her. "Dear, don't you understand that anything that matters to you is also my affair—that it is my right to know of all that concerns you?"

For a moment she did not reply, then she raised her eyes to his for the first time since his return from his trip to the corner.

"You may consider it your right to know of all that concerns me," she said slowly, "but it is a poor rule that does not work both ways—and it is plainly not my right to know of all that concerns you."

"What do you mean?" he demanded. "Upon my word, Isabel, you talk in riddles tonight, and I don't understand you. Please explain."

"It spoils riddles to explain them," with a harsh laugh. "Don't you think so? After one knows the answer there's no more mystery about them, and then is no mystery, can't they?"

"This man doesn't" he burst forth. "And I wish you would tell me what the devil you're driving at!"

"And I'm too dev'lish tired to tell you anything!" she retorted.

"Isabel!" he exclaimed, shocked. "What an expression for a lady to use!"

"I borrowed it from you, my dear," she mocked. "Don't you think that it's about time that you men began to learn that what is right for a man is also right for a woman?"

Training War Dogs

A proof of the patriotism of the non-combatant classes in Russia is afforded by the assiduity and enthusiasm with which the proprietors of kennels in the capitals, in Moscow, and in other large cities have of late begun to devote themselves to the training of dogs intended to be sent to the front as dumb, but noble "brothers and sisters of mercy." It has become a favorite occupation of the upper classes to indulge in this highly serviceable and humanitarian work. The dogs are being trained not only to search for the wounded on the deserted battlefields and to deliver bandage material and first-aid medicaments, but also to warm them and revive them in case of unconsciousness.

The Making of a Hero

A seasoned English "old salt" was a devoted admirer of a young middy under whom he was serving. One day while sailing a mile off Newfound and a gallant rescue was made by one of the lieutenants, which brought a handsome letter of commendation from the Admiralty. "It's a nice thing to get a letter like that," said the old tar to his young friend. "You ought to have one." "Well, I'll have to wait for my chance," said the middy. "See here, said the other. "I'll drop from the rigging, and you jump in and rescue me." "But I can't swim," was the reply. "Never mind," said the weteran, "I'll hold you up till a boat comes!"

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Physician's Advice For Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried various foods, cereals, food-fads, physical culture stunts and ridiculous creams, rely upon themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. But their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and it is also powerful in overcoming the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strengthening, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this curious preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and easy to take.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. All leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has even specific value in overcoming thinness, it should not be used by persons desiring to put on flesh, as they want to gain at least ten pounds or [illegible]. Advertisement.

Birds as Clever Architects

How the Crested Cassique Builds to Foil Its Enemies

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE more one studies birds the more amazed he will be by the beauties, and what he cannot but regard as the ingenuities of the winged inhabitants of the earth. Everything that they do may be guided by instinct and not by reasoning intelligence, but the result, in many cases, appears to be just about what the intellect of man would have produced, if placed among similar circumstances and furnished with similarly restricted means.

Take, for instance, the little hanging village constructed in the branches of a tropical tree by the birds called crested cassiques, a South American species related to our beautiful Baltimore oriole, which also constructs a hanging nest. The nests of the cassique (or cacique, for the name is a copy of that given by the Spaniards to the Indian chiefs), are often a yard or more in length, constructed of strips of bark and long grasses intricately interwoven into the form of an old-fashioned money purse, such as our grandfathers used to carry. These nests, which would make purses for Gulliver's giants, are suspended from the tips of twigs at the ends of pendulous branches, and their purpose is clear at a glance. Going at full speed the cassique can unerringly enter the aperture in his hanging nest.

In its native country the bird, its eggs and its young are exposed to the attack of monkeys and of serpents. To escape these persecutors it does the very thing that we should no doubt do in a similar situation. It accomplishes in a reverse way what the farmer does when he wishes to protect his corn against the inroads of rats and squirrels. The farmer sets his cornerib up on stilts and puts a tin pan upside down on top of each stilt in order that the climbing marauders may be arrested by an insurmountable obstruction just when they think that the prize is theirs.

The cassique has to look out above instead of below for enemies, and so he hangs his crib, or nest, at the end of a long, slender, tremulous branch, so that, if possible, even the water on that his prowling foe may not only be defeated but exposed in addition to a ducking.

The cassique, as I have said, is related to the orioles. His color is sometimes all black and sometimes black relieved with yellow, red, brown or green. Bates in his travels in South America met the cassique under the name of the "japim," in the neighborhood of Para, and he likened it to the English magpie. "It has light gray eyes," he says, "which give it the same knowing expression that the magpie has."

A Colony of Crested Cassiques and Their Nests

It is described as a noisy and imitative bird, capable of mimicking barnyard fowls, and very active, continually flying to and fro, and keeping up a great chattering. Its nests sometimes encircle a tree on all sides, when it is favorably placed, and are at no great height above the ground, which is another circumstance that might be credited to the shrewd intelligence of the bird, since by going too high it would place itself more completely at the mercy of its climbing enemies.

Here is a fact concerning this question of animal intelligence which is worth thinking about. Among savage tribes, for instance among the American Indians, some bird, or other animal, is often regarded not merely as a general symbol, or type of wisdom, but individually as a personage of more than human shrewdness and experience. It is certainly good testimony to the excellence of the ways of animals in dealing with the dangers and difficulties of life when a human savage asks advice, in a tight place, from "his father the beaver," or some other animal whose ingenuity has awakened his admiration and awe.

It is sometimes pointed out as an indication of an essential difference between human and animal intelligence that the animals keep on for endless generations doing things the same way. But there are instances on record in which animals have varied their methods to accord with new conditions, while on the other hand, where tribes and races of men have remained undisturbed by foreign innovations for many centuries, they have led their lives and constructed their homes according to a plan as unvarying as that followed by the builders of the hanging birds' nests.

AGED WOMAN IS STRANGELY LOST

Boston police are searching today for Mrs. Emma Winchell, seventy years old, who left her lodgings at the Boston Industrial Home Friday with the intention of going to a hospital and who disappeared.

The disappearance of Mrs. Winchell is said to be as mysterious as her appearance at the home about a year ago.

According to those in charge at the home she had a very good education and was very refined. She wore when last seen a dress of dark material with black silk waist. She had goldrimmed eyeglasses with extra thick lenses.

When Mrs. Winchell first appeared at the home at 17 Davis street she did not ask for charity of any kind. Although she never appeared to be overburdened with money she always had enough to pay for whatever she wished.

The home was only used by Mrs. Winchell for a few weeks at a time, her last visit being one of three weeks. She never told anybody where she stayed when she was not at the home.

For a number of weeks she had been working for the Belgian Relief Committee on Boylston street. Her disappearance became known when inquiries were made as to why she had not appeared for work.

At the home it was learned that Mrs. Winchell told the matron last week that she had been to see a doctor about a severe cold that had settled on her lungs and that the doctor ordered her to go to the Homeopathic Hospital.

Inquiries were made at the hospital, but it was learned that she was not there, nor did they know any person of the name.

North Attleboro Inquiry in Death of Man in Pond

NORTH ATTLEBORO, March 24.—While the funeral of Charles Renn, found floating in Whiting's Pond early Sunday morning by Thomas Monahan, was held today, Deputy Sheriff E. Cazalyle Brown is investigating rumors of foul play. Neighbors living near the pond reported hearing cries for help. Renn was a former champion rifle shot, and a lifelong resident.

Medical Examiner C. S. Holden of Attleboro said today he found a cut or scratch on Renn's neck.

Deputy Sheriff Brown said he was not satisfied the man died from natural causes.

Renn, with several others, known to the police, spent Saturday night at Whiting's Pond. About midnight the party started for North Attleboro, leaving Renn sleeping, according to their story.

It is reported that a check was cashed by Renn during the week. A few small coins were found on the body when recovered. It is believed that a fight ensued and the man was knocked from the steep embankment into the water.

NORTH ENDER DEAD IN SHRINE BLAZE

Andrew De Vito, eighty-six, one of the most prominent Italian residents of the North End, died at the Relief Hospital early today from burns believed to have been received when a lighted taper, under a religious shrine in his home, at No. 264 North street, North End, came in contact with the clothes of the bed, in which he was sleeping.

After the aged man had retired last night a passerby noticed flames shooting from the room which he occupied. An alarm was sounded. When the firemen arrived on the scene they were forced to break down the door of the room, as it was barricaded by four locks on the inside.

De Vito was lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. His face and body were a mass of burns.

His bed was directly under a shrine, which he had erected in the room. It was his custom to leave a small light burning in front of the shrine all night. The police and fire officials believe that the light, in some unknown manner, set fire to the bed clothes.

The building was owned by the dead man, who was formerly in business in the North End, but retired some years ago. The police state that the blaze caused a loss of $500.

ELMIRA, N. Y., March 24.—While wide-spread search was being conducted by the entire police force, posses of citizens and members of the National Guard, two rewards, totalling $2,000, were offered today for the capture of Jack Cramner, a notorious bandit, who is accused of the murder of Chief of Police John Finnell and Detective Sergeant Charles Gradwell yesterday afternoon. The two officials were shot to death in a rooming house while questioning Cramner and Edward Westervelt about a series of burglaries in this city and Binghamton.

Westervelt, who is under arrest, lay the blame for the shooting upon Cramner, but the police doubt his story.

One reward of $1,000 for Cramner's capture was offered by the city of Elmira and another of similar amount was offered by Chemung County. Descriptions of Cramner were sent broadcast throughout the State. He is about thirty years of age, stands five feet seven inches and weighs about 160 pounds. He talks with the accent of the East Side of New York city and has frequently served time in prison. When he disappeared he wore a dark blue suit, tan shoes and a soft brown hat.

Members of the Thirtieth Company of Infantry, New York National Guard, were called out by Supreme Court Justice McCann and joined in the search. But there was another reason for their presence. Feeling runs so high against Cramner that it was feared he would be lynched when captured. Police Captain Weaver, who was the first man to reach the scene of the double murder, declares that Gradwell's revolver was beside his body, although no shots had been fired from it. Finnell had not had time to draw his weapon. Both men had been shot in the head.

Westervelt, who was found with a broken leg hiding in the cellar of a church after the shooting, was again questioned by the police today.

"I never fired a shot," said the prisoner. "When the bulls came into the room I made a dive for the window, but one of them grabbed me by the leg and when we fell he twisted it. Then Jack opened up with his gun. He jumped through the window when the bulls fell, but stopped and handed me his gun saying, 'you're hurt, kid. Take this and defend yourself.'"

Both Cramner and Westervelt were in Paterson, N. J., recently, Westervelt said, however, he met Cramner in Binghamton ten days ago.

EPPLE AGAIN WINS IN FEES BATTLE

Secretary Louis Epple of the Boston Fishing Commission who for two years has been wanting the Boston Finance Commission to turn over possession of some $1,000 in receipts annually in fees for the registration of licenses, has won another victory in the Senate.

In the face of a special message from the commission asking for immediate action on the bill which would take this money from Mr. Epple and turn it into the city treasury, the Senators postponed action on the bill until next Tuesday.

As a result, it is said that, even if the Senate acts favorably on Tuesday and advances the measure, Mr. Epple will hold the fees for the coming fishing season in the port. Most of them will have been paid in by the time the bill becomes effective.

NEW BUILDINGS IN CHELSEA URGED

Temporary buildings are to take the place of those destroyed in the big fire of April 12 unless the principal street of Chelsea is converted into a mere memorial to the losses sustained by the Planning Board of the city.

The board was appointed by former Mayor Willard last June and has submitted a report to the Aldermen.

When the fire had been checked the board set to work to see what could be done to prevent a recurrence of the conflagration. One of the first things it did was to recommend the erection of temporary buildings for business purposes. Many of these structures, it is claimed, would be built if the owners could be assured that they would be allowed to rebuild on the same location after the war.

The board also says that vacant and unoccupied houses be put under police surveillance for tramps and fire hazards. The board calls to the mind the fact that many of the city's fire apparatus are encumbered with old wood, ice chests and other articles.

It is recommended that a circular printed in different languages be distributed requesting that houses be properly cleaned before summer to prevent the spread of disease by flies and mosquitos.

Believe Boocock Insane Banker in Double Tragedy

Mrs. Howard Boocock, slain by banker husband, who committed suicide.

NEW YORK, March 24. Rigid inquiry has failed to throw any light on the mystery of Howard Boocock's slaying of his beautiful young wife and the taking of his own life in their handsome home Monday evening.

No motive has yet been uncovered for the tragedy that left the two young children of the treasurer of the Astor Trust Company orphans and cut short the brilliant social career of his wife and himself. Coroner Healy has put the inquest over for fifteen days.

Friends, relatives and business associates of the former lawyer, expressed belief that he had suffered an attack of temporary insanity. They agreed Mr. Boocock's health had deteriorated somewhat as a result of a minor affliction from which he had suffered for several months, and that even the comforts of motor specialists had failed to relieve his condition.

Mr. Boocock's mind is believed to have given way just prior to the shooting. The authorities have been unable, they say, to discover any written message he may have left.

Rumors of a domestic shadow over the Boocock home were denounced as gossip by those closest to the affairs of the young couple.

Coroner Timothy Healy announced: "In my opinion Howard Boocock must have fired the two shots while temporarily insane. All the evidence I have obtained showed that he displayed great affection for his wife just before the shooting."

From public officials who had closely questioned the servants in the Boocock household a new version of the events leading up to the shooting was obtained. These statements, when placed together, also revealed the state of extreme agitation which had obsessed the young banker.

According to these reports Boocock, usually most temperate in his own household, ate in the evening meal by consuming three cocktails in rapid succession. His display of nervousness, which attracted attention of the servants when he entered the house, increased after drinking the appetizers.

Boocock was talkative. His agitation increased as the dinner progressed. Twice he dropped his knife and fork.

Several times the banker left the table to pace swiftly about the room. He spoke in sharp staccato accents to his wife, who sat with bowed head.

If the police heard what was being said by Boocock they have not revealed it. He, at least, the officials do not admit it.

BIG BUSINESS BOOM INDICATED BY GAINS

ENCOURAGING SIGN.

But a more encouraging sign was the rise in the value of railroad bonds. Securities of all classes have been increasing in favor for some time. It was not a speculative market but a purchase generally of stocks. The great majority of other prices show fractional gains, and the usual leaders resumed their way.

Steel led the movement, sales of more than 192,000 shares, leading those of Consolidated Gas with 120,000, with Union Pacific third and Amalgamated fourth. Amalgamated rose 2¼, other leading coppers, including Anaconda, Chino and Tennessee, made gains.

Not only was the stock market active but bond transactions amounted to $2,693,000, indicating that investors were as much in the market as speculators.

ALLIED FORCES MUST RAISE $250,000,000 IN UNITED STATES

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, March 24.—This statement can be made [illegible] official announcement of a [illegible] Great Britain is expected within [illegible] weeks.

The total amount will probably be $1,000,000,000, but the full amount [illegible] wanted by Britain and her allies [illegible] understood to be $1,500,000,000.

Details will not be announced until J. P. Morgan arrives in London toward the end of this week.

Negotiations have been begun here by the French government for a substantial credit, and $50,000,000 may be placed upon details have not been settled.

Reports that London bankers are planning to transfer to New York financing important loans made by London on American securities as collateral cannot be confirmed.

The principal international and national bankers here have so far entered into no such arrangement, but the [illegible] efforts of this kind may yet be made if the war promises to be prolonged.

BALANCE FAVORS U. S.

Influential financial interests here are now almost a unit in looking for a speedy collapse of hostilities within the next few months. Italy is expected to join the Allies and Rumania and Greece have already been provided with funds by Britain out of her "war chest."

Selling of American securities by Europe is not increasing. The liquidation is running far short of this country's balance of merchandise exports over imports. The balance in our favor for February was more than $170,000,000—breaking all records.

The foregoing will serve as a reply to the following inquiry received yesterday from a source in [illegible]

Editor, New York AMERICAN:

Is it true [illegible] P. Morgan is going to Europe to [illegible] British credit of $500,000,000 and [illegible] credit of $250,000,000 for the United States?

Are London and Paris likely to sell American securities by which [illegible] to the United States to pay for war orders. What is the opinion [illegible]

Were [illegible] to achieve a great [illegible] for the whole period, [illegible] very drastically, our leading bankers pointed out [illegible] over the international situation is, however, the keynote of the moment. In view of our record breaking exports and big trade balances, the broadening inflow of gold due to the decline in exchange to [illegible] never before known and the lightness of European selling of American bonds and stocks.

Some $8,000,000 gold was engaged by New York bankers at Ottawa yesterday, bringing total engagements from all quarters to $33,000,000 for the present movement. Other large imports are counted upon before the pending British and French credits are established and put into working order.

DON'T NEED GOLD HERE.

Foreign exchange experts are computing what would happen to sterling should the plans for a British credit fail through and Ottawa's supply of gold became exhausted. A rate of $4.50 for the English pound would not astonish them under such circumstances. Certain big banking concerns figure that sterling would be an excellent "gamble" were the rate to go much below yesterday's minimum of 4.73⅜ for sight drafts.

A recognized authority in international exchange who is close to J. P. Morgan said:

"England should borrow here by putting out one-year, two-year and three-year notes. They could easily be sold.

"This would give her money to pay [illegible]

CASINO OUT TO UPSET CARRUTH

MATCHES TONIGHT.

Adams Square at Boylston.
Murray at Chauncy.
Carruth at Casino.

The battle royal for positions in the City League will be resumed this evening with three star matches, but six more matches remain to be rolled in the season's series. It is hard to pick the banner contest of the card but all are bound to be good and well attended.

Carruth and Adams Square are in a deadlock for second position and the work of these teams tonight will have much bearing on the run-off-up tangle.

Carruth rolls Casino at the Carruth alleys. Casino is trailing along in the last place but this team on this team have shown considerable improvement in their last two matches and may spring another surprise.

Casino won a four-point victory from Murray last week, although Murray was conceded the majority of the points by the close followers of the league.

POEHLER OUT AT CHAUNCY.

Adams Square rolls Boylston at Boylston. Adams Square is bent on finishing the season as runner-up to Chauncy and will fight hard to win a big point victory tonight.

Chauncy will have the Murray team as its opponents at the Chauncy alleys. Bill Beatty's team will roll without the services of Paul Poehler, but still the leaders are able to make the best of bowling teams battle to scratch for a point or two.

Murray was temporarily knocked out of the running for second place last week by slumping to Casino, but still is only three points back of Adams Square at Carruth.

SPECIAL MATCHES GALORE.

Jimmy Hannigan and Al Eddy are not downhearted over their defeat at the hands of Pagle and Aspacker and declare that they will recover the 118 pins and enough more to win the match when the second ten half of the twenty-string match is rolled at the Summer Street alleys on Friday night. The scene of action Friday night is the home alleys of Hannigan and Eddy and in previous matches they have always put up high scores there.

* * *

The final ten strings of the contest between Harry Waters and Gorman and Jimmy Mahoney and "Bo" Hartford will be rolled at the Arch Street alleys on Saturday night. Nine strings were rolled at Beverly on Monday evening, when Waters and Gorman piled up a lead of nineteen points.

* * *

A special ten-strings match will be rolled at the Eagleston Shore alleys on Friday evening between Joe Forrest of Eagleston and McLoon of Roxbury. McLoon defeated Forrest last Thursday night at the Roxbury alleys by a close margin.

RABBIT'S BASEBALL SELECTIONS

American and National picked teams announced in next Sunday's Boston American.

HANDY DOUBLE TITLE WINNER

N. E. SWIMMING CHAMPIONS.

Relay race—Brookline Gym. A. A.

500-yard swim—E. Duffy, Brookline Gym. A. A.

150-yard back-stroke—Russell Dean, Brookline Gym. A. A.

Plunge for distance—I. S. Jaquith, Brookline S. C.

50-yard swim—R. Hitchcock, Brookline Gym. A. A.

100-yard—Leo A. Handy, Brookline Gym. A. A.

220-yard—Leo. A. Handy, Brookline Gym. A. A.

Fancy diving—M. Blanchard, Boston.

Leo Handy, Brookline's marvelous boy swimmer, is today crowned with two more championships as the result of his double victory in the New England indoor title meet at the Boston Y. M. C. A. Handy took first place in the 100 and 220-yard events and, besides, was a member of the Brookline Gymnasium team which captured the relay title.

With the exception of the victory of M. Blanchard of Boston in the fancy diving contest, Brookline carried away all the championships, the Gymnasium winning five and the Swimming Club two.

"Ran" Hitchcock sprung a surprise when he defeated Russell Dean in the 50-yard race, but Dean gained back some of his lost prestige by winning the 150-yard back-stroke event.

Langford-McVea Go to Open Atlas Club

Sam Langford, the Boston "Tar Baby," and Sam McVea, another colored boxer of world renown, will meet in the main bout of twelve rounds at the opening show of the Atlas A. A., to be held at the Arena, April 12. Some time ago it was announced that the local directors had been negotiating for this match. Today they received word from George Lawrence, McVea's manager, accepting the terms. So the go is clinched.

BOSTON'S SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

MACON, Ga., March 24.—With the start of the National League pennant race only a few weeks off, I am going to take fate by the hand and play the part of a prophet. I have never performed in the Prophet League before, but I am confident that I will be able to make a good batting average. I may boot a couple in the field, but our best little dopsters occasionally place their reputation on a horse which is not able to run fast enough to keep warm.

Now that I have got this statement out of my system I am going to announce to whom it may concern that the Braves will win the National League pennant this year again. The "fans" may accuse me of playing favorites, as I am a member of the Boston outfit, but after giving the baseball situation careful study I have come to the conclusion that we will be out there in front in the National League steeplechase when the curtain drops in October.

We will have to play great ball all season in order to win, but I believe that the boys will come through as they did in 1914. With Sherwood Magee in centre field, our outfield is much stronger than it was last season, while James, Tyler and Rucolph will receive considerable support from some of our young harlors. The team is also young and the players are now much more experienced than they were last season. We know what it is to go through a thrilling pennant fight and we have profited by our experience.

It is my belief that the Giants will give us a hard fight for championship honors. Johnny McGraw is a high-class manager. He is one of the greatest baseball leaders in the country and is certain to place a well-trained, fighting ball club in the field in April. New York teams are not always high-class affairs, but one has never heard of a team managed by McGraw quitting in a gruelling championship race.

The Giants will be much stronger this year than they were in 1915. McGraw pulled a master play when he secured Hans Lobert from the Phillies. Lobert is a brilliant ball player. He is a steady fielder, a clever base runner and a deadly batter. The Giants did not have a reliable third baseman last season, but Lobert will be able to take care of this position to the queen's taste. He is also a fighting ball player and his winning spirit is sure to turn the tide of battle in many a close diamond tussle.

Fletcher will again play shortstop for New York, while Fred Merkle—the most unfortunate player in baseball—will again be on the job at the initial sack. Fletcher and Merkle are both fine performers and should have good seasons. Larry Doyle will be back at second base. Doyle did not play his best game last year and this was one of the reasons why we were able to overtake the Giants. When Larry is going right, he is one of the greatest ball players in the country. He is a fine fielder and a sensational batter. He is also a fighting ball player and goes after everything in sight. McGraw has a large number of outfield recruits. Burns, though laid up now, is sure of his berth in right field, as he has no equal in the National League at this position. The other two positions have not yet been filled, but McGraw may be relied upon to have them taken care of by clever fielders and sweet batters.

The Giants' pitching staff has been greatly strengthened by the addition of "Polly" Perriti. He pitched good ball while with the Cardinals and should do even better work for McGraw. Mathewson, Demaree, Tesreau, Marquard and a couple of other hurlers will complete McGraw's pitching staff and they should give a good account of themselves. "Big Chief" Meyers will again be on the job behind the bat, and he has few equals as a backstop when it comes to all-around ability.

I believe that the fight for third place will be between Chicago and St. Louis. The Giants and the Brkves both seem to have a little something on both of these clubs. Bresnahan and Huggins, however, are not the king of managers who quit without a fight and they are sure to make things interesting for us until the grand old pennant race ends. But when all has been said and done, I feel sure that we will be up there at the top and ready to give battle to the best team in the American League in the World's Series.

In my article tomorrow I shall compare the American League clubs and state which team I believe has the best chance for the flag.

Harvard-Yale Race to Be Up Stream

NEW LONDON, March 24.—The Harvard-Yale 'varsity eight-oared race will be rowed up-stream on the Thames river between 4:30 and 5 p. m. on Friday, June 23, according to an announcement by F. Valentine Chappell, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The tide in the river will be at ebb at 1:30 p. m., and at flood at 7:37 that evening, and it will be necessary to have the race rowed about 4:30 p. m., if advantage is to be taken of good water at the upper end of the course.

The morning races, about 10:15 will be either a four-oared 'varsity event or one of substitute freshman eights from Red Top to the navy yard, and the freshman eight event from the navy yard to the drawbridge.

Promising Freshmen Out for Harvard Win

Harvard's second outdoor baseball practice is carded for Soldiers Field today. In the initial session of the season, Team A defeated Team B by 8 to 6. Coach Serion refused to work any of his best pitchers but added to his lineups several promising freshmen. Brickley and "Tackle" Hardwick played with the losing team.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The Wanderers' hockey team of Montreal defeated the Quebec team, 12 to 5, in the first game of a two-game contest, in which the total score will decide the victor.

M'GARRIGILL MAY LOSE SCHOOL MARK

Will Stanley McGarrigill, formerly of Dorchester High School, be deprived of a record he made for 1,000 yards back in 1912? This is the one important question which puzzles the Boston school boys, and the school authorities may be called upon to settle the matter.

* * *

It appears that in 1912, McGarrigill was timed for 1,000 yards at 2 minutes, 24 and 2-5 seconds at the Reed Memorial meet. When the record of that performance was posted at the big meet last Saturday, McGarrigill's time was given as 2 minutes, 34 and 2-5 seconds.

* * *

P. G. Fallon of English High, who finished the 1,000 yards in 2 minutes, 35 seconds Saturday, was credited with having broken a record. At the time many of the boys protested, but the mark was hung up for the record.

* * *

It now comes out that just a few days before the meet, some busybody started a scrench about a schoolboy not being able to run 1,000 yards in the time made by McGarrigill. They convinced certain people that it was "absurd" to think of it, and the result was that 10 seconds were clipped from McGarrigill's time.

* * *

Friends of McGarrigill's have come to the front now, and are seeking to have the authorities give him credit for holding a record.

* * *

Just to prove that it is not "ab-surd," we will refer to the time made by Jim Burke of Worcester Academy back in 1910, when he finished the distance of 1,000 yards in 2 minutes, 24 and 4-5 seconds.

* * *

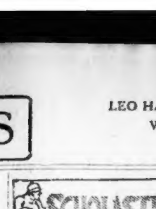
And to further prove that school-boys are capable of making the distance in that time, we will let Coach John D. O'Reilly say a word: "McGarrigill performed many times for me in 1912, and on several occasions he did 1,000 yards in 2 minutes and 27 seconds. To my mind there is no doubt as to whether he made the time, as I sincerely believe that he is capable of doing even better."

* * *

We hope for the sake of sports-manship, at any rate, that McGarrigill will be allowed the honor of holding that record of 2-24-2-5 to do with it as he may.

* * *

The Huntington School baseball team has made arrangements to hold its practice games at the old American League park. Coach Williams, assisted by Larry Gardner at third base at University of Vermont, has thirty likely candidates out and may be able to discover some real material.



It looks as though the Boston Latin School will be without a captain this year to lead its baseball team. Old Father Time has interfered, and dropped Captain-elect "Dick" McGinn of South Boston, who was chosen to lead the team on the field.

* * *

McGinn has passed the age limit and therefore will not be allowed to captain the team. There are no other candidates for the position, as all the veterans, with the exception of Ernest Smith, are down in their studies.

* * *

Smith cannot take the berth, as he is already the leader of the track team. If anyone should happen to see a stray captain running loose in the vicinity of B. L. S., just catch him and get your reward from the rest of the team.

* * *

Bernhard Larson, manager of the Winchester High nine, has completed his schedule for the season and gives it out as follows:

April 21, Watertown; 25, Almont; 21, Winthrop; 26, Lexington; 28, Belmont; 29, Arlington; 29, Belmont; May 1, Winchester; 2, Belmont; 12, Belmont at Belmont; 15, Winchester; 16, Arlington at Arlington; 17, Watertown at Watertown; 22, Arlington at Arlington; 23, Belmont at Belmont; 24, Reading; June 2, Stoneham at Stoneham; 9, Arlington; 10, Woburn; 13, Melrose.

* * *

The Winchester boys would care very much for a little game with some nine on June 17, as that date is open.

* * *

The Noble and Greenough crews appeared on the Charles yesterday and the men, rowing in their usual positions, satisfied the coach with their good work, despite a chop which kept up the entire afternoon.

* * *

Today, Roxbury Latin and Volk-mann crews will paddle the oars for a short session from the B. A. A. boathouse in Cambridge.

Baseball schedules announced today are as follows:

EAST BOSTON HIGH.

April 20, at West Roxbury; April 27, Brighton at Roxbury; April 28, in Rally at Walnut; April 29, South Boston; May 1, Charlestown at Charlestown; 4, at Belmont; May 11, Hyde Park at East Boston; May 16, West Roxbury at East Boston; May 18, at Brighton; May 23, South Boston at South Boston; May 29, Charlestown at East Boston; June 1, at Hyde Park; June 4, pending; June 8, pending; June 15, pending; June 17, Lynn English High at Lynn.

CUTLER PICKED TO BEAT LEMLE

MAT BOUTS TONIGHT.

Cutler vs. Lemle, best two out of three falls.

Michaloff vs. Roller, best two out of three falls.

Barna vs. Fowler, one fall.

Charley Cutler, the giant Chicago wrestler, today ruled a slight favorite over Karl Lemle, whom he meets in the big number of an all-star program in Mechanics Building tonight.

If Cutler is successful in vanquishing Lemle he will be a step nearer the catch-as-catch-can championship left open since the retirement of Frank Gotch. The bout will be to a finish, best two out of three falls.

Lemle was especially outspoken today and said he figured that while Cutler is a speedy fellow, he will set a pace that must bother the big Chicago man.

I plan to work in such a way, said he, as to reduce to a minimum Cutler's crushing tactics, which as used with such telling effect on Ilando Bey. I do not intend to let him do the aggressive work if I can help it, and I think that I can. I hope to use my arm roll and other European tricks to advantage, and along the lines I have laid out, I feel certain that success will come to me.

Roller and Michaloff are both in grand shape. This match will bring together two men of directly opposite types in wrestling, although physically they are something alike.

Dr. Peris Fowler, who makes his initial appearance here against Ovclone Burns, has a splendid record. In the Burns-Fowler session one fall will win, without time limit. In the other, two out of three will be the rule.

BOYLSTON STREET REALTY PROTEST

Property owners in the Boylston street district have sent a letter to Mayor Curley, intended to bring attention to the fact that the loss of taxable values in that vicinity, due to the mistaken policy of cutting off transportation facilities, must necessarily bring increased burdens to other parts of the city.

The letter follows:

"Undersigned owners of property on Boylston street and its neighborhood desire to call to your attention the situation in that district and ask that you may, if possible, find for us the cure of a condition that threatens serious loss for the whole city.

FOR TRADE EXPANSION.

"The officers of the Elevated Railroad at present appear to be making their strongest efforts to prevent the building of a subway station at Arlington street without due appreciation of the effect upon the city of the failure to build such a station.

"This district offers the natural outlet into which the congested retail district of Boston can expand, because it possesses both available land and the possibility of the necessary transportation facilities.

"Consequently large improvements have been made there in the belief that the community could not possibly afford to deny such transportation facilities, and lately prices and assessments have been greatly increased on the land in the belief that this district was to be treated as part of the business centre of the city.

"This district was steadily building up and adding to taxable values, and the time will come when, with the time when a large part of the transportation that formerly was carried on the surface was placed in a subway, and to our great astonishment, access to that subway was denied for a space of two-thirds of a mile along the street, although the only building gaps in the retail district stations occur at intervals of less than half that length.

RESTRAINS COMPETITION.

"The slight improvements in surface traffic now offered in no way compensate for the loss of the subway, since a retail district that has third-rate transportation cannot compete for business with one that receives enormous and increasing preference as our present congested district.

"There can be only one result from this most unfortunate policy. The owners of property in this district, if they are denied reasonable access by the main arteries of metropolitan transportation, must obtain a corresponding reduction in their assessed valuations.

"If the business centre of the city, now so badly congested, is not to be allowed to expand as it naturally would, and if this portion of the city is to be treated, as to transportation, as not belonging to the business centre, then it cannot be taxed as such and its taxes must be reduced. A greater portion of the city's expenses must be shouldered by the rest of the community.

"We are aware that these difficulties are not confined to Boston, but that both the city and the Elevated have serious burdens to bear and difficult problems to meet. We do, however, most respectfully represent that the solution does not lie in the destruction of taxable values through the needless injury of a promising business section of the city, and in the strangling of the natural growth of the city because of the failure of our transportation facilities to adapt itself to the growth of the city's business centre."

Gold Braid for Guards at Island

When the 100 guards at the Deer Island House of Correction are given their new blue uniforms with lots of gold braid Deer Island prisoners will have to look to its laurels in illuminating the harbor.

The new uniforms come via the latest edict of acting Penal Institutions Commissioner David R. Shaw. Within the next two weeks the guards at the reformatory down the harbor will be decked out with these latest accessories, so when they parade around watching the prisoners at play or at meals on the island they can awe them with their military look and bearing. Officer in charge Powell will have nice big epaulets along with the gold braid.

No one has learned who suggested the uniforms. The samples have been approved by Mr. Shaw and Commander at Deer Island, Carlton A. Brett, at one time was in the uniform. That was when he was a police officer at the Dorchester station.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know someone who is troubled with catarrhal deafness or head noises, cut out this formula and send it to them and no one will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness.

Compounded in England some time ago, seven to nine consecutive trial catarrhal deafness, head noises, etc., have been directly traced to unsanitary conditions. It was further brought out that values, sprays, inhalers, etc., rarely if ever, relieve with the complaint, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. Much is being said on the subject and money were spent in perfecting a pure, gentle yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the cause of the trouble in the system. The prescription which was eventually formulated and which has aroused such a belief that catarrhal deafness and head noises will soon be extinct is given below in understandable form so that anyone can prepare it themselves in their own home at little expense.

Secure from your druggist one ounce Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a cup of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to relieve at once the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear.

Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial, and free themselves from this distressing disease.

BEER VICTORY FOR HARVARD SOPHS

Set 'em up once more for the Beer boys at Harvard.

The opponents of the "wet" propaganda have received another setback. Only recently the learned men of the Harvard Summer School faculty through the school prospectus put the collegiate seal of approval upon the thirst and said it could have some the thirsty sophomores' class to add another notch to the prestige that beer has already gained as an underdrauote buy provider.

The sophs gathered around the festive board last evening in the Harvard Union, and a test vote was taken on whether beer should be served at the remaining class functions of the year. The beer boys lapped up an overwhelming victory by 187 votes to 66, and the class of 1916 will not set 'em up for the house.

The question of "when is a brewer not a brewer" was also satisfactorily solved during the debate previous to the fact that J. Wilmon Brewer of Boston, leading the forlorn fight for the cause of the "drys," made the very scandalous things about the brew the brewers brew.

POLICEMAN ACTS AS PATROL HORSE

And what'll be the horse?
I will," said Peterson.
I will, if necessary."
Though I didn't know
That my work would be so
When I joined the force,
But I'll be the horse."
(Wakefield Warbler.)

Gidddap!

Patrolman John Peterson of Wakefield says that the next time he serves as understudy to a horse, in order to ing a gentleman to the police station, said gentleman will walk.

But, on the other hand, Chief James J. Pollard allows that Peterson is entitled to a medal for serving as a horse when no horse was to be had.

Peterson's friends have suggested that as iron cross, with the motto: "My freedom for a horse," is the least that could be done for him.

Peterson hopes, however, that the sacrifice he made in getting in the shafts in an emergency, will at least speed the coming of the motor patrol wagon that has been the promised due of every Wakefield police department since Hector was a pup.

Peterson was sent out on a "death" call from the Water street car barns. He found Patrick Maloney, not dead but sicker than a horse, and in need of an emergency and hurry-up case.

He continued his weary trot from a nearby shed but the horizon was horseless. Peterson had a squad of fallen limbs, but no sign of Maloney aboard. Then Peterson stepped between the shafts and gave a creditable imitation of a horse hauling a vehicle. By signs Peterson instructed the Italian ambulance driver, which they did—maybe.

Anyhow, Peterson brought his horseless vehicle and the unconscious Maloney to the station and a doctor arrived shortly after the patient.

Peterson hopes that nobody loses a plane

Blood Risings Begin A Mere Speck

Stop Them From Growing Large and Dangerous.

Nearly everyone who uses S. S. S. for the blood recalls a friend who went through untold suffering as the result of a mere speck on the skin. Many of these poor people did not realize, until too late, what that result from a slight skin affection. But they recovered if they used S. S. S. in time. Blotches and boils, sores that every crossroad and away back off the road is someone who will tell you how S. S. S. the famous blood purifier, has restored health.

It is a most interesting fact that this remarkable vegetable medicine overhauls the blood in a manner that excites curious minds.

But it acts in accordance with accepted physiological laws and yet its effect is almost beyond comprehension to those who are wedded to such drugs as mercury, calomel, arsenic, iodide of potash, copper and other baneful influences which all the world has since discovered to their destructive tendencies.

S. S. S. is indeed a nature's tribute to what we need and it is worthy of note that in almost any drug store throughout the country you will find it regularly in stock. Get a bottle today. And if you believe you have a problem, write to the Medical Advisor of the Swift Specific Co., 106 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Our word for it, he is one in a million and will give special attention, retired from active practice but proud of his name and of his recognized ability.

One Reason Why Women Need the Ballot

With It They Might Repeal a Few of the Antiquated Laws Which Deny Them the Most Ordinary Rights

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

In a recently delivered opinion a Justice of the New York Supreme Court, who is thoroughly familiar with the laws of his State, held that a husband is entitled to the earnings of his wife unless there has been a special agreement to the contrary.

In other words, if a woman, in order to help her husband through an illness or a period of unemployment, goes to work as a school teacher or a stenographer, and is able, in the course of ten or twelve years, to save a few hundred dollars, that money can be taken over by the husband at any time he sees fit, unless there has been a special stipulation that he shall not do so.

Now, this is the law, and there is no reason for criticism of the Justice who interprets it.

The most prejudiced "anti" would admit that it is not a just law. In the case of a woman with a drunken husband, unable to save anything himself, and out of employment half the time, it would not only rob her of her earnings but would imperil the proper support of any children that she might have.

However hard she had worked, whatever sacrifices she had made for her children, all her money would have to be given to her husband at any time he demanded it—to be spent in drink or dissipation, or even on other women, if he happened to be that kind of a man.

If any law on the statute books permitted such an injustice to men you may depend that it would have been repealed long ago.

But because men are not affected personally, although all honest men will admit the injustice of the law, they will not take the trouble to abolish it.

In this case you see an excellent illustration of one of the reasons why women want the ballot.

Perhaps they might patiently tolerate laws that do injustice merely to themselves. Most women are patient—have been patient for centuries.

But when a law threatens the welfare of their children, that is a different matter.

Women know that until they have the ballot they will have little to say in matters of legislation.

Give them the ballot, and they will have a great deal to say about it, even though they may not go in any considerable numbers to the Legislature and help to make the laws.

But the fact that they possess the votes to elect or defeat men who do make the laws will give their opinions a real importance.

With the ballot granted to them, women can draw up a list of the unjust laws which deny the rights that should be granted to themselves and to their children, and demand the repeal of those laws.

And if they are in the right and very much in earnest their demands will be granted.

That is why earnest, thinking women want the ballot. Most women would prefer the protection of husbands and the enjoyment of their own homes if these could be had with a guarantee of security for themselves and their children.

But until they can back their demands with ballots they can get no such guarantee. They have tried it for centuries without avail.

The voters of Massachusetts will have an opportunity to decide this matter this Fall.

March 31 Is "Ripe Olive Day"

Observe It by Making the Acquaintance of a Delightful, Nutritious, Natural Food

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

California, which has given the orange to the country, has made another valuable contribution to its food products—the ripe olive.

March 31 will be Ripe Olive Day in California, and it should be Ripe Olive Day throughout the country.

The ripe olive is not a relish or a pickle, like the green olive with which everybody is familiar.

It is a rich, nutritious food, containing all the elements to sustain life, and containing besides 14 per cent. or more of olive oil, which is far better than medicine for people whose digestions trouble them.

The olive is one of the oldest of known fruits, and one of the most valuable. The oil that comes from it has been used in the Orient and in Southern Europe for thousands of years.

And trees still growing there date back 1,000 years—their gnarled branches and seamed bark speaking of their great age, though wholesome fruit still grows each year among their glossy leaves.

The Spanish missionaries, who settled California, and who brought the orange there, also brought the olive.

They used the ripe fruit as a food, and they kept in good health and lived to be very old men because of their diet.

Among people who eat ripe olives regularly appendicitis is unknown. The oil acts on the digestive tract beneficially—keeps it in perfect condition, while the pulp of the olive is rich in protein, and from protein the human frame is built up.

If you have not made the acquaintance of ripe olives do so. Eat them as a relish, if you like, but eat them also as a food. You will soon make them a part of your regular daily diet, and as a result you will not need to bother very much about doctors' bills.

Give them to the children, and you will not need to force castor oil down their throats. Keep them on the table and in the pantry—a plentiful supply.

With abundance of oranges and ripe olives in the house there will be little occasion to patronize the drug store or call the doctor.

This is another gift from California for which the nation ought to be grateful. Buy ripe olives March 31 and you will buy them the year around.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Politics Is An Awful Thing

We are pained and surprised to read that Mr. Wilson had answered "Rats!" when a leading question was put to him by the correspondents. Before two years of the contaminating influence of Washington conversation he would have at least said "Rodents!"

One Man Can't Know Everything

If the late Mr. Morgan had known as much about the future value of New Haven stock as he did about that of Fragonard panels Mr. Mellen might still be a railroad president.

Too Apt Pupils

Anarchists, trained and accustomed in bombs, are considerably more dangerous than anarchists left to their own devices.

Nothing Imperishable

During its two years of life Congress spoke twenty million words, and we defy anybody to quote a single one of them.

They Must Be There

Before the government finally dissolves the junk trust wouldn't it be well to look over the assets for the Democratic platform?

But Look What He Did to Taft

And now comes along T. R., grabs that citizenry Mr. Wilson spoke of and undertakes to train and accustom it to arms!

Invariably

The paths of glory lead beneath the wave!

Scientific Farming

Chloroform is administered to plants by Danish horticulturists on the theory that it stimulates their growth and activity.

WE gave the cabbage chloroform, and, after it came to,
The neighbors were astonished at the way that cabbage grew.
"If chloroforming thus will help a lowly cabbage head
It must be good for other things around the farm," we said.
And so we took a quart of it and fed it to the cow,
But she became quite indisposed—and is not with us now.

HOWEVER, nothing daunted by this setback to our plan.
We bought a keg of chloroform to give the hired man.
He didn't seem to care for it; he growled and snarled and fussed,
And, when we forced it down his throat, betrayed profound disgust.
We don't know that it helped him; he's a trifle comatose,
Though just as active as he was before he took the dose.

Wanted Wisdom

A professor tells women there is no harm in using paint and powder unless it can be detected. The advice women need is just how much can be used without fear of detection.

Practical

St. Louis is to have an onion day. There will be some scents in a celebration like that.

The Result Is the Same, However

In Germany bank officers come and collect the savings of the laborer. In this country this duty is performed by the butcher, the grocer, the gas man and the ice man.

A Burbankian Tip

Well Named

The battleship Pennsylvania was named after a State that was named after a Quaker, and Quakers are strong for peace. Which is right and proper, for the Pennsylvania is the strongest peace argument that Uncle Sam has to offer.

Naturally

There are 400,000 words in the dictionary, and, according to Gus Thomas, the vocabulary of the average New Yorker comprises only 250. The remaining 399,750 are, however, in daily use here in Boston.

It Would Improve Most of 'Em.

Now that the deaf and dumb have successfully put on a melodrama why don't they produce a few musical comedies?

From a Terrestial Point of View.

Astronomers seem to be astonished that Saturn's rings are lopsided, but we never knew a ring that wasn't crooked.

True British Hospitality

A reception committee of five English cruisers has completed all arrangements for welcoming the Prinz Eitel Friedrich back to the high seas.

No Cause for Uneasiness

Host Picked for President. But it's only for president of the Constitutional convention, so it is not yet time for all good men to come to the aid of the party.

More Charity in Spending Money Wisely Than in Giving It to Beggars

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Shows Necessity of Proper Expenditures to Keep Tradesmen Busy and Laborers at Work—Hoarding Wrong and Foolish

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

CHRIST said two thousand years ago: "Sell all thou hast and give to the poor." But if Christ were here among us now in present conditions it is certain He would never give such a command. He would say that if each human being possessing wealth were to sell all he had and give to the poor in a very brief time the world would contain nothing but beggars, and He would realize that charity bestowed without logic or reason or system or judgment is a sure way to make the need of continued charity in the world.

Thousands of people at the present time in America, possessed of comfortable means and assured income, are hoarding their money and refusing themselves the comforts they are amply able to enjoy because they hear the cry of hard times and are filled with fear of harder times coming. They are producing harder times by this very method.

Persons Who Deny Themselves Proper Apparel Do Injury to Their Tailors

If you, my dear madam, or sir, are able to buy the materials and pay the dressmaker or the tailor for a becoming suit of clothes, what are you accomplishing by denying yourself good apparel and by hoarding your money? You are depriving your dressmaker and your tailor of a respectable source of income. You are making the way for them to enter the bread line.

If you are able to employ several domestics to keep order and comfort and beauty in your home, what are you accomplishing for the world at large by dismissing your assistants in order to save your money? You are depriving maids and men trained for this especial line of service or employment, and once again you are adding new members to the bread-line regiment.

Reckless extravagance and foolish expenditure of money are not recommended, but it is advisable that men and women in our land today should provide themselves with the necessities, the comforts and the luxuries for which they are able to pay, and it requires no far sight to see that by this method the poverty of the land will be decreased and the prosperity increased.

Money was never meant to be hoarded. Money, like blood in the human system, must be kept in circulation or it stagnates and produces disease.

How One Young Woman Decided She Could Afford to Ride in Cab

A young woman who had managed to lay aside a tidy little bank account, and whose persistent and patient industry had enabled her to command a good salary for the work she was employed to do, heard this cry of hard times until she was in a sort of mental panic regarding the future. Finding herself one Saturday with a busy day of shopping and going about on errands of business and mercy before her, she hesitated about taking a carriage to render her day more enjoyable.

"Ought I to indulge in this extravagance," she asked herself, "when the condition of the country is so precarious?"

As she approached the line of waiting cabs she was reasoning the matter to herself; then it occurred to her that each one of these cabmen was endeavoring to make a living; that he, too, was facing worry and anxiety, and that if each man or woman who had been in the habit of patronizing him were to withdraw his or her custom the whole line of cabmen would become objects of charity in a few months. Then she realized that the luxury she was about to grant herself was in no way an extravagance, but was a very practical method of helping the world along.

That which is reasonable, sensible and right to do in the way of daily living should be done now without any consideration of hard times or possible poverty awaiting the future. We should all buy the clothes we need, employ the help necessary and enjoy the wholesome pleasures possible, and consider that we are following out Christ's injunction in a modern and practical way. Instead of selling all we have and giving to the poor, we are sharing what we have with self-respecting human beings and saving them from becoming paupers.

Far Nobler Act to Assist Tradesmen and Toilers Than to Give to Beggars

It is a far nobler act to assist tradesmen and toilers to succeed in their various efforts at self-support than it is to scatter money to beggars. There is no virtue in denying our support to the one in order to give to the other. When we encounter absolute poverty and absolute want we must do our share toward alleviating them, but to prevent such conditions is a higher duty than alleviating them. Therefore, if your wardrobe needs replenishing, your home needs refurnishing, if extra help is required to render the home comfortable, if you feel the need of a change of environment and climate, and you have the means to one or all of these things without incurring debt, do not hesitate on the plea that you must give all you have to the poor. You are saving willing workers from needing your charity by sharing your money with them in a legitimate and businesslike manner.

Science for Workers

By EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

Q.—"A couple of days ago I got into an argument with my little daughter about motions of the sun and earth. She said the sun does not move; I said that it moves as well as the earth, and that nothing in the universe is stationary. She said she would ask her teacher. She did, and her teacher said the earth moves, but not the sun."—John M. Erikson, 1164 Plymouth avenue, San Francisco, Cal.

A.—The sun, its stately retinue of eight planets and twenty-seven moons, also an unknown number of regular comets and meteor streams, these all, ever on time, move in the general direction of the giant sun Vega, in Lyrae, with the same velocity of twelve miles per second. The ignorance on even elementary astronomy is simply phenomenal.

If your daughter could be taught an easy book on astronomy instead of utterly to her useless and positively harmful algebra, how infinitely better it would be. I have been asked many times, "Which is the larger, the moon or sun?" Also, "Which is the hotter, the sun or earth?" Our nation is classed in geography as "enlightened." But the "enlightenment" regarding even our little solar system, to say nothing of the hundred million suns, is so dim that it is really dark or black.

Q.—"If not the 100 or more miles depth of the earth's atmosphere subject to the same tidal influence affecting the ocean; and being so much lighter than water, would not the protuberances and disturbances caused far exceed the ocean tides? If this be true, would not they greatly influence meteorological conditions?"—H. W. HURLBURT.

A.—Yes; the attraction of sun and moon causes tides in the air, water, and also solid rock layers of the earth. And the heights of tides vary inversely as the densities of air, water and the materials of the earth. The attraction of the moon is 2.2588 times greater on the air, water and earth than that of the sun.

The mass of the moon is 1, and that of the sun is 29,341,453. The distance of the moon from the earth is 1, and that of the sun 389. These data, equated and solved, give the above mentioned ratio of tidal effects.

Meteorological conditions are not yet, if indeed they ever will be, reduced to mathematical formulas. No doubt that aerial tides produce these meteorological effects, but if they do their amounts and nature are unknown. Then storms due to tides in air cannot be predicted. No prediction without mathematical law.
